Thackeray, the keenest and most appreciative of literary men, has aptly called Irving "the Goldsmith of our time;" and no one can read the pages of Geoffrey Crayon, of Knickerbocker, or of the more solid historical works, without recognizing the justness of the comparison. The clear melodious style, the playful humor, never forced, and often half suppressed, the strict impartiality of comment—all these lend a charm to Irving's writings, possessed by the works of no other author of the present century.

As a novelist, George Eliot occupies a position peculiarly her own. Her fictions are as delightful and lifelike as those of Dickens or Thackeray; her delineations of character are so complete, so sharp and clearly drawn, that we feel towards the men and women of her novels as though we had known them, loved them, feared them, or despised them for years; and through all her works there runs a vein of philosophic thought, conveying almost insensibly to the reader the author's well considered views of right and wrong and of the problems of life. Her novels should be found in every library, and in every house.

"I regard him as the first social regenerator of the day—as the very master of that working corps who would restore to rectitude the warped system of things. They say he is like Fielding; they talk of his wit, humor, comic powers. He resembles Fielding as an eagle does a vulture; Fielding could stoop on carrion, but Thackeray never does. His wit is bright, his humor attractive—but both bear the same relation to his serious genius that the mere lambent sheet lightning playing under the summer cloud does to the electric death spark hid in its womb."—CHARLOTTE BRONTÉ.

THE ANCIENT HISTORY OF THE EGYPTIANS, CARTHAGINIANS, ASSYRIANS, BABYLONIANS, MEDES AND PERSIANS, GRECIANS, MACEDONIANS. By CHARLES ROLLIN. This edition is well printed and very neatly bound, and though cheaper in price, will be found equal, if not superior to any other published.

Rollin's History is invaluable, whether as a text book for experience, or as a medium for the study of the time with which it deals. It is to the dark past what Gibbon's work was to Rome, and what Hume, Macaulay, Knight and Green are to English history. The endorsement of years of acceptance as a standard academic authority is the best tribute to its worth. In presenting a cheap edition, complete in every particular, of these heretofore costly volumes, we supply a want that has long been felt and has often appealed for succor. They throw the clearest and fullest light on a period most interesting to every scholar, but until now the radiance was only available for those who could afford to secure it at a classical price, or who had time and patience to gain it through the inconvenient channel of a public library.

"'PLUTARCH'S LIVES' is one of the few truly great books of the world. No other one work among the classics has contributed to English Literature so much from the rich stores of ancient lore. Shakespeare obtained from it the material for several of his greatest plays; and innumerable authors, great and small, in every age, have made large drafts upon it for knowledge and inspiration.

"His business was not to please the ear, but to instruct and charm the mind; and in this none ever excelled him. The work which has immortalized Plutarch is his lives of forty-six Greeks and Romans."

"CAVENDISH."

CARD ESSAYS, CLAY'S DECISIONS AND CARD-TABLE TALK. By "Cavendish."

No. 390. 1 volume, 16mo, cloth, gilt.....75 cents.

THE LAWS AND PRINCIPLES OF WHIST, carefully revised, with diagram cards, printed in two colors; to which is added Card Essays, Clay's Decisions and Card Table Talk.

No. 391. 1 volume, 16mo, cloth, black and gold.....$1.50

Lovers of the noble game do not need to be told that there is whist, and "whist;" or, as a distinguished master puts it, whist and bumblepuppy. The latter is purely and simply a round game of cards, in which chance is the only element of success; the players who happen to have the best cards in combination win the game, and when the deal is made, the fate of the hand is practically decided; while in the former, chance is but a secondary element, and the game is won or lost by pure skill and science, or their reverse.

For those who enjoy real whist, standard books on the subject, like those of Cavendish's, are a necessity. The rules of the game cannot be strictly adhered to without some recognized authority to which to refer; and even for the settlement of such less important matters as disputes between partners about the correctness of each other's play, books of this kind are of immense value.

POLE (WILLIAM.)

THE THEORY OF THE MODERN SCIENTIFIC GAME OF WHIST. By William Pole, F.R.S., Mus. Doc., Oxon, to which is added Rules of the Portland Club.

No. 392. 1 volume, 16mo, cloth, gilt.....75 cents.

Text books on games are common enough, but when a game assumes the dignity of a science, as whist does, they are a necessity. Pole's treatise on whist is an authority which no lover of the game can afford to be without.

A NOVEL OF ABSORBING INTEREST.

Breezy and entertaining, without an impure word, it is a forcible presentation of the great question of the day, Why are Men allowed so much wider latitude as to Moral Conduct than Women? Charmingly illustrated, beautifully printed, tastily bound.

A noted critic says:—"This is the novel of this summer. The love-making in it is charming, and it is interesting up to the very end. It gives a sad picture of lives of the men of the present day in our large cities, particularly in New York and Philadelphia. Like Thackeray's Barry Lyndon, it is an elaborate study of selfishness."

THE COMPLETE ESSAYS OF LORD BACON, with the notes of JOSEPH DEVEY. Brevier type, leaded, cloth, gilt.

No. 446. Price.....$1.00

LORD BACON was one of the most extraordinary men of which any age can boast. A scholar, a wit, a lawyer, a judge, a statesman, a philosopher, his writings will endure as long as the languages in which they were written can be read. His universal genius made him master of all the sciences, and his immortal writings laid the foundations of the scientific method which has changed the philosophy of the world. Prof. Playfair said of him: "The power and compass of such a mind must be an object of admiration to all succeeding ages." His Essays are a treasury of the deepest knowledge conveyed in a gorgeous and energetic style. They continue to be the chosen companion of all students and thinkers.

By Philip Gilbert Hamerton. Bourgeois type, leaded, 552 pages. 1 vol., 12mo, cloth, gilt.

No. 454. Price.....$1.00

One of the most charming volumes in the language, and wise and helpful as it is delightful, to that class of readers who appreciate what is finest and noblest in literature. "The humblest subscriber to a mechanic's institute has easier access to sound learning than had either Solomon or Aristotle. Whoever reads English is richer in the aids to culture than Plato was." This quotation is a "gem" characteristic of the "mine" which the thoughtful will find in this volume.

EDUCATION.

By Herbert Spencer. 274 pages, bourgeois type, leaded. 1 vol., 12mo, cloth, gilt.

No. 455. Price.....$1.00

It is doubtful whether any other volume written in the present century can be named which has exerted a deeper, wider, healthier influence than this little work. It has served as a chief corner-stone upon which the educational literature of the world within the past twenty-five years has been built, and has been a vital force in moulding the lives and shaping the methods of thousands of our chief educators, and through them has powerfully influenced the character of millions of the best cultured of the human race. It is a work which is worthy to be read, and read again, by every teacher and every parent. Of all deep thinkers there is none who excels Spencer in clearness, strength and beauty of diction—it is an intellectual delight to follow his reasoning even when one is not always ready to agree with his conclusions.

SHAKESPEARE IN FACT AND IN CRITICISM.

BY

APPLETON MORGAN, A.M., LL.B.,

President of the New York Shakesperean Society; Author of "The Law of Literature," "The Shakespearean Myth," "Some Shakespearean Commentators," "Venus and Adonis," "A Study of Warwickshire Dialect," etc., etc.

12mo, cloth, uncut edges. Ornately printed on fine paper by the De Vinne Press. Price, $1.50.

THE work consists of nine essays under the following titles:

I.—SHAKESPEARE AND HIS ESTHETIC CRITICS.
II.—MUCH ADO ABOUT SONNETS.
III.—WHOSE SONNETS?
IV.—SOMETHING TOUCHING THE LORD HAMLET.
V.—SIR WILLIAM D'AVENANT AND THE FIRST SHAKESPEAREAN REVIVAL.
VI.—LAW AND MEDICINE IN THE PLAYS.
VII.—QUEEN ELIZABETH'S SHARE IN THE MERRY WIVES OF WINDSOR.
VIII.—THE GROWTH AND VICISSITUDES OF A SHAKESPEAREAN PLAY.
IX.—HAVE WE A SHAKESPEARE AMONG US?

Mr. Morgan's line of Shakespeare study being out of the beaten track of commentary and comment, and his "The Shakespearean Myth" or "William Shakespeare and Circumstantial Evidence," having attracted unusual attention, as well in England as in the United States and Germany—in which last-named countries two editions have been exhausted—the publishers feel that a new volume from the same pen, and embodying the results of five years of further and riper study from Mr. Morgan's own standpoint, but with better lights, will be welcomed with interest by students of Shakespeare.

Messrs. BENJAMIN & BELL beg to announce that by special arrangement with the author, they have secured the American Market on the FOURTH EDITION, Revised and greatly enlarged, of

THE BOOK-LOVER'S ENCHIRIDION;

OR, THOUGHTS ON

The Solace and Companionship of Books,

Selected from Writers of every age, from Solomon and Cicero to Carlyle, Emerson and Ruskin.

BY

ALEXANDER IRELAND,

Author of "Memoir and Recollections of Ralph Waldo Emerson," &c.

12mo, pp. 512, cloth, gilt tops, uncut edges. Price, $1.50.

THE sale, within ten months, of two editions of this work encouraged the compiler to prepare a Third Edition, enlarged by the addition of two hundred pages. This, too, was so well received, that the whole impression, consisting of 3,700 copies, has been exhausted in less than nine months. A Fourth Edition, carefully revised, and with further additions, is now presented to the public in the hope that the volume may continue to attract a steadily increasing number of thoughtful readers.

This, the Fourth Edition, bound in this country, from English sheets and with English publishers' imprint, contains almost double the matter of any previous edition sold in America, the Third Edition having been sold exclusively in England. A descriptive circular, containing sample page, fac-simile of title page, and opinions of the Press and Men of Letters, will be sent upon application to the publishers.

THE

COLLECTORS' HAND-BOOK.

A BIBLIOGRAPHY OF FIRST EDITIONS.

ONLY 250 COPIES PRINTED.

12mo, half parchment, $1.50.

THIS little manual contains exact transcripts of the titles, collations, and detailed descriptions, in order of publication, of every book written or edited by HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW. It is of particular value to collectors, librarians and booksellers, because it describes the anonymous works and the text-books published when LONGFELLOW was a professor at Bowdoin College.

"Book collectors have recently devoted increased attention to making up sets of the first editions of leading American authors. Hawthorne, Longfellow, Poe, Lowell, Irving, Whittier, Holmes and many others, all have their admirers, who search the bookstalls, ransack old libraries, and even of late fill the advertising columns of the booksellers' journals with lists of their wants and the prices they are willing to pay for them. All who have engaged in the delightful excitement of book-hunting must have at times met with difficulties, owing to the small amount of bibliographical data obtainable in print. With the hope of supplying this want, so far as the works of Longfellow are concerned, this bibliography is modestly offered."—EXTRACT FROM PREFACE.

☞ This book was first published by WILLIAM EVARTS BENJAMIN before the formation of the present firm.

FIRST EDITION OF AN ORIGINAL WORK BY LEIGH HUNT.

THE BOOK OF THE SONNET.

Comprising an Essay on the Cultivation, History and Varieties of the species of poem called the Sonnet, with a selection of English Sonnets, with copious notes, now first published from the original MSS. of Leigh Hunt. An Essay on American Sonnets and Sonneteers, with a Selection of Sonnets, by S. Adams Lee.

LARGE PAPER EDITION OF ONE HUNDRED NUMBERED COPIES, PRINTED FROM TYPE IN 1867, BUT NOW FIRST PUBLISHED.

Illustrated with Two Finely Etched Portraits from Rare Prints.

Two Vols., 8vo, Boards, Uncut Edges, $6.00.

Mr. R. H. Stoddard says:

"As a collection of Sonnets, it is not only the fullest ever made, but by far the best, even excelling the dainty little collection by Dyce, . . . and Hunt's exhaustive and every way admirable introductory essay is, after all, much the best part of the work. Its pages are steeped in thoughtful scholarship on this special theme, and sparkle with genial and veracious criticism."

Mr. W. D. Howells says:

"The Essay is printed for the first time, and it was written in Hunt's old age; but it is full of light-heartedness, and belongs in feeling to a period at least as early as that which produced the 'Stories from the Italian Poets.' It is one of those studies in which he was always happy, for it keeps him chiefly in Italy; and when it takes him from Italy, it only brings him into the Italian air of English sonnetry,—a sort of soft Devonshire coast, bordering the ruggeder native poetry of the south."

The London Saturday Review says:

"The genuine aroma of literature abounds in every page of Leigh Hunt's delicious Essay on the Sonnet. His mind shows itself imbued with a rich knowledge of his subject, and this, illuminated by the evidence of a thorough and unaffected liking for it, makes him irresistible."

☞ The above work was published by William Evarts Benjamin before the formation of the present firm. As the edition is almost exhausted the price has been advanced from $5.00 to $6.00.

SOMETHING USEFUL.

THE BEST OF ALL.

Breed's Portfolio Scrap Book.

It is composed of fifty large (6x9 heavy manilla envelopes, firmly and handsomely bound together like a book, cloth sides, leather backs and corners, with an index in front. [See cut.] Instead of pasting your scraps fast, you simply drop them into one of the envelopes or pockets, with the other scraps you have on the same subject. Write the subject on the outside of the envelope, and enter it properly in the index. As a receptacle for material for sermons, lectures, political speeches and editorials it has no equal.

Read the following letters of recommendation:

The Bowen-Merrill Co.: SYRACUSE, N. Y.

DEAR SIRS—I am in receipt of your Breed's Portfolio Scrap Book, and return my thanks for your kindness in sending me so valuable a help for arrangement of material for my work. I agree with my friends Needham and Munhall in regarding it as the best arrangement yet devised for the systematic preservation of notes and illustrations. I am sure it will commend itself to all who may examine it as being just what they want.

Yours very truly, D. W. WHITTLE.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Breed's Portfolio Scrap Book of bound envelopes, published by the Bowen-Merrill Co., of Indianapolis, Ind., is of great utility and convenience. I strongly recommend Teachers and Evangelists, with others who wish to keep notes of subjects properly classified and easily adjusted for ready reference, to procure such a book. It is superior to anything I have ever had, to hold notes of Bible reading, etc. GEO. C. NEEDHAM.

From Rev. Edward Cooper, D. D., of the St. Louis Evangelist.

I find Breed's Portfolio Scrap Book a vade mecum in preserving the gathered fragments properly arranged for use. It is the best and most convenient arrangement I have ever seen for the purpose. EDWARD COOPER.

Nearly 20,000 copies of this valuable work have already been sold.

"With an experience of more than twenty-four years at carpentering, I can say it is the best work of the kind I have ever had the good fortune to meet with, as it gives more information for the amount of money, either to master workman or journeyman, the principles being so different from other works of the kind, yet so plain that any apprentice should be able to comprehend them in a short time. The Rafter and Brace Table certainly is a great saver of thought and labor."—John J. Nicholson, Carpenter and Builder, Philadelphia.

CAREW—Tangled.—A Novel. By RACHEL CAREW. 16mo, cloth..... .75

"It is brief, as a summer story ought to be, breezy as a whiff from the Adirondack mountains, full of ludicrous contretemps, and fragrant with the odor of unfamiliar flowers. The scene is laid at a Swiss spa. We feel the presence of the glorious Alps, the Swiss lakes, and those pretty little villas beloved of artists and of poets. The flirtation which gives its title to this very bright little novel is one of the oddest, funniest and most original affairs we ever read of. We have enjoyed a very hearty laugh over the situation."—Inter Ocean.

"Another Will Carleton in the field of homely dialect poetry, and his name is Eugene J. Hall. He sings of American life in its more rustic forms; of old-fashioned things and old-fashioned people; of New England ideas and institutions; of the world our grandfathers lived in; and he sings for the most part smoothly and acceptably, with a little quaver in the voice, a shake and a trill here and there, and now and then a tear. There is much every way in these home lyrics to give pleasure to minds which best like poetry that clothes familiar objects and experiences in the vernacular."—Literary World, Boston.

HOME Cook Book.—Contains over 1,000 practical and economical recipes, all tried and tested. Contributed by ladies of influence and good judgment, in Chicago and other cities and towns. The Home Cook Book is one of rare value, and for general use is unequaled.

As each lady's name is attached to each recipe she contributed, it stands to reason that the book is the best, for no lady would permit her name to be published in connection with a recipe unless it was the best she knew; and again, all of the recipes have been in frequent use, and must have become thoroughly tried, tested and proved. The articles are all from experienced writers.

"One of those ingenious labor-saving books that everybody wants. It is a charming book to dip into, and an invaluable one for reference. Two classes of readers will especially delight in it, viz: Those who have never read Scott's novels, and wish to get some knowledge of them with the least possible labor; and those who, having read them, wish to refresh their memories with a well-arranged brief of the characters and plots. WELSH—English Masterpiece Course.—By ALFRED H. WELSH. A book for private study, literary clubs, the class-room and for libraries of reference. (Ready in September, 1887.)

This work provides for the study of all the representative English writers from Chaucer to Emerson, including the shaping influences of the periods in which each lived and wrote, his characteristics as a writer and as an individual, and one or more of his acknowledged masterpieces. The reference lists are sufficiently extensive to insure the availability of the manual wherever there are colleges or public libraries.

The method commends itself by important advantages. It teaches the best use of reading; familiarizes the student with the processes of investigation; compels him to consider a work of art as a whole, methodically and comprehensively; makes him, in a large sense his own teacher; makes his task more self-developing, and therefore more pleasurable; enriches his mind and perfects his power of expression by the written systematic exposition of his views on the vast subjects of morals and human nature, that form the staple of the highest literature.

BURNZ' CHART OF PHONIC SHORTHAND.

Designed for teaching the Elementary Sounds of the English Language and the characters of the Phonographic Alphabet in Public and Private Schools and in Phonographic Classes.

This Chart illustrates at once the elementary principles of Language, of Music, and of Drawing. It is 24x36 inches in size, and will prove not only useful but highly attractive in any schoolroom of whatever grade. It will be found to greatly assist in the Phonic Drill, or "Spelling by Sound," which is now an exercise in all the best schools. The vowel scale is a full one, of 8 long and 8 short vowels, thus agreeing with the latest Typic Sound Charts. The Singing of these eight pure vowel sounds to the various musical scales, instead of using the syllables "Do, Ri, Mi," etc., is an excellent method of cultivating the voice and ear of children to a distinct appreciation of the varieties of vocal sound.

The characters on the Chart which represent the consonant elements of the language, consist of straight and curved lines, arranged in geometrical groups according to their line of direction; therefore, besides their primary use in representing the consonant sounds, these characters, which are several inches in length, may be used as objects for primary exercises in simple Geometrical drawing—the curved lines being arcs of circles, and the straight lines chords of the arcs.

IMPORTANT BOOKS.

THE CRISIS OF MISSIONS; OR, THE VOICE OUT OF THE CLOUD.

By the Rev. Arthur T. Pierson, D.D. 16mo..... $1.25

"We do not hesitate to say that this book is the most purposeful, earnest and intelligent review of the mission work and field which has ever been given to the church."—Christian Statesman.

"Few even of those who are interested in foreign mission work can possibly realize how wonderfully the hand of God is in the work. Dr. Pierson's wonderful book, for we can style it by no less an adjective, floods the subject with new and almost heavenly light. Every Christian should read it."—Words and Weapons.

"I could wish that your volume was in the hands of all the clergy, as it brings before them a closely compacted array of facts, arranged under distinct heads and welded together by the strong rivets of logic, vivified and made almost a thing of life by the evident presence throughout its pages of the guiding power of the Holy Ghost."—The Right Rev. Wm. Bacon Stevens. Bishop of Pennsylvania, to the Author.

"One of the most important books to the Cause of Foreign Missions—and through them to Home Missions also—which ever has been written. It should be in every library, and every household. It should be read, studied, taken to heart, and prayed over."—Congregationalist.

In the little volume before us, the history of missions is unrolled as a scroll, the marvelous providences of God are traced in letters which glow with the intensity of the writer's convictions, the trumpet call of God's providences to the Christian world is sounded so loud and clear as to reach, one would think, the dullest ear."—Baptist Herald.

*MATTHEW HENRY'S COMMENTARY ON THE BIBLE.

Whitfield read it continuously through four times.

Robert Hall read daily two chapters of this Commentary, during the last two years of his life, "Feeling, as he proceeded, increasing interest and pleasure; admiring the copiousness, variety, and pious ingenuity of the thought, the simplicity, strength, and pregnancy of expression."

The sainted Bickersteth says: "No subsequent Commentary has rendered it less valuable or less desirable in every Christian's Library."

Rev. C. H. Spurgeon says: "First among the mighty for general usefulness we are bound to mention the man whose name is a household word—Matthew Henry."

KITTO'S BIBLE ILLUSTRATIONS.

New edition, 8 vols. 12mo. With index..... 7.00

"The matter is attractive and fascinating, and yet so weighty that the man who shall study these volumes thoroughly will not fail to read his Bible intelligently, and with growing interest."—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

RYLE'S NOTES ON THE GOSPELS.

SPURGEON'S SERMONS.

10 vols. 12mo..... 10.00

"In fulness and vigor of thought, in simplicity and purity of language, in grasp of Gospel truth, and in tact and force in its presentation, he is perhaps without a peer in the pulpit."—Rev. Dr. Holme.

SAMUEL E. CASSINO'S

CATALOGUE OF PUBLICATIONS

FOR 1887-8.

137 HIGH STREET, BOSTON.

Thackeray's Works.

The complete works of WILLIAM MAKEPEACE THACKERAY. This edition is entirely new, and is by far the finest edition ever produced in America. It is printed from new electrotype plates, from a new font of beautifully cut long primer type, cast expressly for this work, on fine paper. The size of the page, and the well proportioned margins leave nothing to be desired in this respect. It is bound in a very neat and attractive style, in green and brown cloth. It contains about fifteen hundred (1,500) illustrations by the author, and other well-known artists. No other American edition contains over 325 cuts, while these volumes contain nearly five times as many, thus making it by far the most desirable set of Thackeray now on the market. It is published in ten handsome volumes, at a price which brings it within the reach of all.

My Garden.

An original poem by SIMEON TUCKER CLARK, M.D. Illustrated by LENA J. RINGUEBERG and F. SCHUYLER MATHEWS. This is superbly illustrated by fine woodcuts, and makes a beautiful gift-book. It is printed on the finest paper and is tastefully and attractively bound, while the low price at which it is placed on the market will make it a great favorite. It contains beautifully engraved wood-cuts of our wild flowers and many sketches of beautiful bits of scenery.

Bound in full tree calf, or half morocco 12.00

The Mahogany Tree.

By WM. M. THACKERAY. This popular poem has been superbly illustrated by the well known artist, FRANK T. MERRILL, and makes a most attractive gift book, being especially adapted for a gift to a gentleman, for whom it is often very difficult to find an appropriate gift book. The illustrations are made by photogravure and illuminated by hand, and a fine portrait of Thackeray is given on Japan paper.

"There are 24 illustrations in this volume, beginning with a caricature of Thackeray by Richard Doyle, and including the 'Copyright' and the illustrated title page. Mr. Merrill has shown a chaste and well-trained yet free and individual fancy. It has been his aim to bring out the moral of the poem, and he has had no inferior success. With a very few touches he has made you hear the winds whistle, and realize mid-winter's cheerlessness in his 'Icy and Chill' sketch. On the opposite page is suggested abundant comfort within doors. Fairy childhood, blowing soap bubbles, and Old Time's scythe are skilfully placed as foils to each other. These are a few specimens, no more noticeable, however, than several others. At last comes 'The End,' with the streaming smoke from the burned-out candle, the broken goblet and the spent butterfly — truly a speaking sketch. A portrait of Thackeray, after the drawing by SAMUEL LAWRENCE, fronts the title page. The title page illustration itself seems to us unique and excellent. Unique is the cover, too, having a strip of three inches of mahogany veneering on the front side, from top to bottom. The book is beautifully and appropriately bound and boxed. Size 11 x 14 inches." — Advertiser.

EDITION DE LUXE.

An édition de luxe, strictly limited to 100 numbered copies has been made, with proofs on Japanese paper, with extra margins. Only a few copies left.

"Without any exception this édition de luxe on Thackeray's hearty old convivial song, 'The Mahogany Tree,' is the most striking Christmas book we have seen, and undoubtedly one of the most elegant works on the subject of Christmas, ever printed in America." — Cambridge Tribune.

Price $15.00

The Christmas Carol.

By CHARLES DICKENS. Illustrated by the celebrated artists, I. M. GAUGENGIGL and T. V. CHOMINSKI. This most popular of all of Dickens' Christmas stories, with the many superb illustrations and the unique binding, make the finest and most appropiate present obtainable. The illustrations must be seen to be appreciated, and are the finest productions yet made by the photogravure methods.

"There are 24 full-page drawings, having in some instances, as in the several ones of Scrooge, an original and faithful conception that will fix character irremovably upon the mind of all who see them. It is necessary to show Scrooge in different periods of his transformation from the 'covetous old sinner' to 'as good a man as the good old city knew,' and while certain numbers are much superior to others in style, the individuality of Scrooge, under each group of influences, is well preserved, and the meaning is kept clear and tributary to the preconceived estimate of his character. There are other figures that are done just as well as those of Scrooge, the Fezziwigs and the knot of business men who talk of the death of Scrooge, and the people of the 'den of infamous resort,' and that contribute strongly to increase the general value. In the supernatural scenes but little less power and strength are taught. All the drawings are reproduced by the photogravure process into perfect specimens of that work. For a frontispiece there is the portrait, 9½ x 11½ inches, with autograph, on Japan paper, of Charles Dickens, with lifelike countenance. It is an elegant volume, in paper, presswork and binding, as well as in its art features." — Boston Globe.

The Picturesque Coast of New England.

The wonderful variety and beauty of the scenes to be found along the New England seaboard, afford a fine opportunity for the artist, the full scope of which has never been realized hitherto. Under the title "The Picturesque Coast of New England," a handsome portfolio containing twelve photogravures from drawings by LOUIS K. HARLOW, each plate being 16 x 20 inches in dimensions, is issued. These pictures represent picturesque "bits" of the shore at "Mount Desert," "Castine, Me.," "Rockland, Me.," "Portsmouth, N.H.," the "Isles of Shoals," "Newburyport, Mass.," "Nahant, Mass.," "Nantucket," "Newport, R.I.," "Coasters," a "Glimpse of Long Island Sound from the Connecticut Shore," and "Marblehead, Mass." Mr. Harlow's talent and exceptional faculty of execution, are uncommonly displayed in these sketches, which also reveal a romantic vein of sentiment. The book will have a unique cover of dark brown mottled boards, upon which, in relief, will stand out a white sail of real canvas, bearing in Pompeian red letters the title. Above this, at the left, a golden net will be draped across the corner of the cover, while white seagulls will be seen here and there flying across the brown field.

There is an edition of twenty-five copies on satin, and fifty copies on Japan paper, which Mr. Harlow will sign, while the balance of the edition will consist of 1,000 copies on heavy plate paper.

SCIENTIFIC BOOKS.

Strasberger's Microscopic Botany.

A manual for beginners and students, from the German. Translated by Rev. A. B. HERVEY, Ph.D. This book is a guide to the use of the microscope in the department of botany, and teaches the student not only the use of his instruments and all its accessories, but also how to investigate all sorts of vegetable tissues and substances with the microscope. It takes the student along by easy steps in a series of progressive lessons over the whole field, so that when he is through the book he may rightly feel himself competent to undertake an investigation in any department of botanico-microscopical work.

The plants selected for the various experiments and lessons are such as grow common everywhere in the fields or in gardens and hot houses.

The original work is an abridgment of the larger work by the same author, on the same plan. Dr. Strasberger is one of the foremost botanists in Europe, and his recent important and original investigations are well known wherever the science of botany is studied.

The translator has put the author's thought in the briefest form consistent with clearness and completeness. The work contains over 100 illustrations drawn from specimens, and the book will contain nearly 400 pages.

DR. SAUVEUR'S

EDUCATIONAL WORKS.

"The HENESS-SAUVEUR SYSTEM of teaching the Languages (the Natural Method) differs from that usually followed, in that the pupil learns the language which he undertakes to acquire without the aid of grammar or dictionary, purely as a spoken language, and much in the same way that a child would learn it. English is banished from the class-room; the time is used in conversation beginning with such simple elements as the familiar objects in the room may afford, and the vocabulary is formed by degrees, every day fixing in the memory the words already learned and adding others, until, in a surprisingly short time, the learner finds himself carrying on some animated discussion, of limited range to be sure at first, but with a sufficient command of his new language for the purpose. Pronunciation is acquired, and the ear formed at the same time, without the confusion which the written form of French or German is apt to create at first."—The Nation.

"You are striking at the root of the evil by showing how to teach, and by inspiring with your example, as well as with your books, many most intelligent persons to begin on a new basis the work of instruction."—Pres. D. C. GILMAN.

"I admire extremely all that I have seen of your system."—F. J. CHILD, Harvard College.

"I believe that the common methods of teaching languages, ancient or modern, to children and young persons, need to be profoundly changed, and changed in the direction of your 'Natural Method.'"—Pres. CHARLES W. ELIOT.

"CAMBRIDGE, November, 1877.

"The HENESS-SAUVEUR SYSTEM is the rational way to lead the pupil to understand, speak, read, and write a foreign tongue. I would call it the Natural Method. In the hands of a spirited teacher it produces marvellous results, enabling the reader to think and express himself unconsciously in the new language he is acquiring, and to appreciate its genius and feel its niceties.

"I think it can be carried out even in the largest classes; it is so good and simple that I hope it will be fairly tried by teachers of languages. I desire to say this because I was never convinced of its practicability and excellence myself until I tried it.

"It is not superficial. On the contrary, I know of no system that calls up more mental activity in both teacher and pupil. There is nothing mechanical or merely formal in it. It lends itself to the highest teaching. Even the grammatical knowledge imparted by this method is broader than is given by any other.

"As I understand it, there is no good thing in the old system which it does not embrace, if brought in at the proper time, the fundamental idea being that, from the start, the language to be taught must be used as the only medium of instruction. The instructor proceeds by induction from the concrete to the abstract, and so connects word and phrase with the things or ideas they express that the pupil rapidly learns the use of a new instrument for expressing his thoughts by the same process by which he acquired his vernacular tongue.

"FERDINAND BÔCHER,

"Prof. of Modern Languages in Harvard College."

"PARIS, le 14 Janvier, 1878
"Rue d'Assas, No. 44.

"MONSIEUR: J'ai reçu vos deux volumes, Entretiens sur la Grammaire et Causeries avec mes Elèves.

"Je vous en remercie. J'en ai pris connaissance avec intérêt. Je suis d'accord avec vous sur l'utilité d'apprendre la langue d'abord, et de ne venir à la grammaire que subséquemment. Par ce procédé, la grammaire cesse d'être une abstraction difficile à concevoir, difficile à appliquer. Mise à sa place, elle devient à la fois plus facile, plus lumineuse, et plus féconde.

"La méthode de s'appuyer plus sur les bons écrivains que sur les grammairiens me paraît digne de tout éloge. Il est vrai qu'en ceci je ne puis être que partial; car c'est cette méthode que j'ai suivie dans mon Dictionnaire de la langue française.

"Vos chapitres sur le participe passé et sur le subjonctif ont attiré particulièrement mon attention. Vous avez beaucoup facilité la théorie et la pratique du premier. Quant au second, qui comporte tant de nuances, vous êtes un guide excellent pour toutes ces délicatesses de langage.

"Dans ce qu'on lit, vous trouverez naturel que l'on cherche son profit particulier. Ce profit particulier a été pour moi dans une série d'observations et de discussions auxquelles vous avez été conduit en examinant certains articles de mon Dictionnaire. Je ne hais pas de me voir critiqué, quand la critique est fructueuse. Je suis bien vieux, et ne puis songer à aucun travail de révision; mais mes successeurs, si j'en ai, feront bien d'extraire de votre livre ce qui me concerne, afin de le discuter et de l'approprier.

"Agréez, monsieur, l'assurance de ma haute considération.

"E. LITTRÉ."

TEXT-BOOKS.

I.—FRENCH.

Introduction to the Teaching of the Living Languages. 12mo, paper, 25 cents.

De l'Enseignement des Langues Vivantes. 12mo, paper, 25 cents.

No one ought to teach the Natural Method without getting thoroughly imbued with the contents of these little works. They will interest not pupils only, but all teachers and students of any language. As the works of the masters have preceded grammars, so should the study of the masters precede the study of grammar. After the language is well known, the study of grammar becomes a work of intelligence, full of serious enjoyment : before that time it is useless.

Causeries avec les Enfants. 12mo, $1.25.

"Je recommande toute spécialement à l'attention des professeurs les Causeries avec les enfants Elles présentent une application rigoureuse de la méthode d'enseignement décrite dans ma brochure, Introduction to the Teaching of Living Languages. Je n'ai pas perdu de vue un instant que je destinais le livre aux enfants, et aussi aux mères qui voudront enseigner elles-mêmes la langue française à leurs fils et à leurs filles.

"La conversation dans les Causeries avec les enfants est très-facile et soigneusement graduée. Le principe capital de la méthode est qu'il faut aller sans cesse du connu à l'inconnu, faisant comprendre les mots nouveaux par ceux que l'élève a déjà acquis, et sans jamais demander aucun secours à la langue anglaise. Ce principe a été appliqué dans le présent ouvrage avec l'attention la plus grande. Aussi, je le considère comme éminemment propre à introduire mes collègues dans la pratique de l'enseignement."

Petites Causeries. 12mo, $1.25.

The Petites Causeries advances a step farther in conversation, taking up many of the fables of La Fontaine, and entering into deeper and more thoughtful conversation upon them and other topics of absorbing interest. There is not a chapter but is full of fascination even to the wisest. There is no talking by rule for the sake simply of becoming learned ; but everything is natural, graceful, and beautiful. The author says : "Je les destine tout particulièrement aux premières classes des Écoles supériures (High Schools) et aux établissements qui font de l'enseignement du français une portion importante de leurs études."

La Parole Francaise. By L. SAUVEUR and A. VAN DAELL. 12mo, $1.

"Quelles sont les personnes qui doivent employer ce livre? Celles-là qui s'intéressent peu à la littérature et qui étudient le français pour le parler seulement dans la société de tout le monde, pour voyager en France et en Europe, pour aller causer à Paris de ce dont on s'entretient tous les jours, là comme ici, comme partout. Le livre peut servir aussi aux élèves qui étudient les Petites Causeries : il ajoutera à leur vocabulaire un autre vocabulaire non moins riche que le premier et presque indispensable."

Causeries avec mes Eleves. Illustrated. 12mo, $1.50.

A work of a higher grade for older students, who are of proper age to enter into conversation upon all topics—literature, art, politics, religion, and any theme of social interest. The Causeries avec mes Elèves is not only a book of the Natural Method, it is much more ; its wealth of words, of expressions, of thoughts, makes of it the most perfect READER that a teacher might wish for. It ought thus to find its way into every school, and be the book of all methods. The very genius of France is alive in all its pages.

"For many of his chapters, Dr. Sauveur takes some fable from La Fontaine as his theme, recites and comments upon it, illustrates it by historical reference, or digresses to some inviting collateral topic—all, be it understood, in question and answer, skilfully and sometimes even artistically managed. Molière, Pascal, a humorous passage or two from Töpffer, in the same way supply the text for chapters, which give variety and freshness to what is usually a monotonous and dry road."—The Nation.

Contes Merveilleux. 12mo, $1.50.

A book well adapted to give the fluent use of conversation, and containing a wealth of words.

Fables de la Fontaine, avec notes. $1.50.

In this selection of masterpieces, in the accompanying notes, and in the choice of extracts from different authors, expressing ideas in relation with the fables, we find the ideal conversation-book for intelligent classes. The great fabulist has found an exponent who loves and understands him and has brought him nearer to us.

Entretiens sur la Grammaire. 12mo, $1.75.

After Littré's letter it is unnecessary to write another word in praise of the most original of all French Grammars.

Grammaire Francaise pour les Anglais. 12mo, $1.50.

This work has a unique feature and one that makes it a great improvement upon any of its predecessors : it is really written for people of English tongue, which means that it encounters and overcomes those special difficulties which Americans dread when they undertake to study French. The book is no reproduction of well-known and insufficient rules ; it is original, personal, and founded on the class-room experience of one whose powers of observation and faculty of imparting knowledge have been admired by the greatest educators of this country. Dr. Sauveur says in his Preface : "C'est aux personnes de langue anglaise, que le livre est destiné. Aussi me suis-je efforcé de ne jamais oublier que ceux qui étudieront ma grammaire ne sont pas français, qu'ils ignorent nos idiotismes, qu'ils ne connaissent point et comprennent difficilement la signification de nos temps, qu'ils ont à peine une idée de notre subjonctif, que l'emploi de l'article et les règles du participe sont une nouveauté qui étonne leur esprit saxon, et qu'ils ont à apprendre même la prononciation de la langue française. De nombreux exercices terminent ma grammaire, et je fais imprimer séparément le corrigé de ces exercices. Celui-ci est destiné aux professeurs seulement et aux personnes qui étudient sans maître."

Petite Grammaire Francaise pour les Anglais. 12mo, $1.25.

Cette grammaire embrasse tout le sujet traité dans la Grammaire française pour les Anglais. Cependant, je me suis efforcé d'être assez simple dans mon style pour être compris de tous, même de ceux-là qui sont peu avancés dans l'étude du français, ou qui sont encore trop jeunes pour entendre rien à la philosophie d'une langue. Dans ce but, dés exercices nombreux ont été mis dans le livre à côté des règles, et parmi ces exercices on trouvera un certain nombre de phrases anglaises et de courts extraits des auteurs anglais, destinés à être traduits par les élèves. Ils ont été choisis avec le plus grand soin, en vue d'enseigner l'application des règles, et de les faire mieux comprendre et mieux retenir."

"On a mis à la fin de cette grammaire le premier acte de Lo Dame de Lyons (The Lady of Lyons), et un chapitre des Aventures d'Alice dans le pays des merveilles (Alice's Adventures in Wonderland). On trouvera ces passages traduits dans le Corrigé des exercices qui accompagne ce livre."

Corrige des Exercices de la Grammaire Francaise. 12mo, paper, 50 cents.

Corrige des Exercices de la Petite Grammaire Francaise. 12mo, paper, 50 cents.

II.—LATIN.

Introduction to the Teaching of the Ancient Languages. 12mo, paper, 25 cents.

"I have read with interest your 'Introduction to the Teaching of Ancient Languages,' and the first chapter of your 'Talks with Cæsar,' and desire to thank you for the advance sheets. I believe that the common methods of teaching languages, ancient or modern, to children and young persons, need to be profoundly changed, and changed in the direction of your 'Natural Method.'

"Your persevering efforts to make known your method, and to demonstrate its advantages, seem to me, therefore, to be of public service.

Believe me, dear sir, very truly yours,

PRES. CHARLES W. ELIOT, Harvard University."

The Vade Mecum of the Latinist. Thirty chapters of Cæsar, to be learned by heart. Reprinted from "Talks with Cæsar de Bello Gallico." (With accents, marks of quantity, and map of Gaul.) 12mo, paper, 25 cents.

A Word for Word Rendering into English of C. Julii Cæsar Commentarii de Bello Gallico, Book I. To accompany "Talks with Cæsar." 12mo paper, 25 cents.

Talks with Cæsar de Bello Gallico. (Colloquia Cæsariana ; Text of the First Four Books, with accents and marks of quantity ; Notes on Book First ; and an appendix on Pronunciation and Inflection. With map of Gaul.) 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"My dear Dr. Sauveur: I return by to-day's mail the proofs of your 'Talks with Cæsar,' which you sent me, and which I have read through with constantly increasing interest. The fact is, no one can stand out against your enthusiasm, to say nothing of your genius for teaching languages. I begin a skeptic ; I continue a rebel for a time ; but before I know it I surrender at discretion.

W. S. TYLER, Professor of Greek, Amherst College."

"I have the most hopeful interest in your application of the 'Natural Method' to the ancient languages. In learning Latin, it would save at least half the pupil's time, and would occupy the other half to much better purpose than by the old method, as it would exercise not his memory alone, but his reason and his imagination. I shall endeavor to interest the teachers of Latin in our public High School in your treatise, as illustrated by the 'Talks,' and shall be gratified to find them able and willing with new classes to enter upon the New Method.

DR. A. P. PEABODY, Harvard University."

SUNDAY-SCHOOL BOOKS.

Above and Below. By REBECCA PERLEY REED ($1.00), pp. 336.

A mother writes of the lessons which, after her baby's death, she tried to impress on the tender minds of the brothers and sisters; and of the varied experiences of a sanctified home. She says: "I have endeavored to render heaven as actual to their belief as earth, and the existence of the departed as positive as their own."

Academy Boys in Camp, The. By MRS. S. F. SPEAR ($1.00), pp. 264.

A story of a company of boarding-school boys who spent a month camping on an island near the sea-coast. Teaches the meanness of lying, and the manliness of telling the truth.

The wide range of thought, the freedom from any bias of judgment, the scholarly analysis of the whole subject, will be recognized by every reader; and the style will recall to thousands the man himself at work. It will be found equally useful to the private Christian also. . . . The compiler of this volume, his daughter, Mrs. Samuel Johnson, modestly makes her father tell his own story. His letters, as she truly says, are the best index of what he was. Like Cowper's letters, they are models of their kind. Enlivened often by a rich and original vein of quaint humor, keen, but kind, and always pervaded by his affectionate, genial nature, they deserve to be universally read. Especially we commend them to our young men, who aspire to rise in the world by personal merit as he did to succeed in business, and so to leave a like blessed memory.

MISSIONARY.

Arabs and Turks. By Dr. Edson L. Clark. $1.50.

This historical and descriptive work has for its purpose — to use the author's own words — the "placing before the Christian public the means to a better knowledge of our great missionary field in the Turkish Empire than can be obtained from scources now generally accessible." Dr. Clark begins with the story of the decay of the Roman Empire and the dissensions which tore asunder the early Christian Church and paved the way for the coming of the Mohammedan system of religion. Ancient Arabia and the Arab race next claim the reader's attention; then follow accounts of Mohammed's life and teachings, the rise and decadence of Saracen power, the high-handed measures of the Turkish soldiery, the crusades of the nations of Western Europe, and the foundation of the Ottoman Empire.

The present volume is offered to the Christian public, more especially to the friends of missions, in the hope that it may gratify a desire, which it is believed is very generally felt, for a more complete account than has been hitherto given of the Martyr Church of Madagascar, including the progress of Christianity in that country, from its introduction to its recent and marvelous extension among the people.

This is proving especially helpful in out-districts, and among scattered populations.

Services for Easter, Children's Day, and Christmas. By M. C. Hazard. Music by John W. Tufts. 5 cents each; 100 copies, $4.00.

The Society is fortunate in having enlisted in this work the enthusiastic interest of a thorough musician like Mr. Tufts, who adds to technical acquirements a long experience as director in church service, and an intimate knowledge of the possibilities of children's voices, as well as a warm sympathy with children's tastes. Many testimonies like the following have come to the publishers, and show that the BEST is appreciated: —

"We all — organist, superintendent, and teachers — pronounce your Christmas concert exercise as the best musical arrangement that we have ever seen."

"Will you allow me to thank and compliment you, and to congratulate your constituents upon the perfect Easter service, THE GLORIOUS HOPE."

It is an interesting fact that a single copy of THE CHRISTMAS GOSPEL found its way into the hands of some English musicians who reproduced it by the manifold process, and the Service was used on Christmas Day in two London churches,

Vesper Services. By the Rev. Joseph T. Duryea, D.D.

Six numbers. Published separately at 3 cents each; 100 copies, $2.50.

In preparing these services Dr. Duryea has met a long-felt want of our churches — an Order of Service for evening worship simple in arrangement, but providing for a large participation in the exercises on the part of the audience. The music, responsive readings, and other features of each service are so planned as to secure unity, completeness, and beauty. These printed forms, in the hands of pastor and people, cannot fail to insure intelligent and hearty coöperation.

Dr. Duryea's preëminent fitness for such a work is well known. His musical and literary ability, added to a wide pastoral experience, is a guarantee of the value of these compilations.

Bible Studies. By Rev. A. E. Dunning.

Cloth, 40 cents, net; paper, 60 cents, net.

"Secretary Dunning has a rare power of putting truth effectively, alike on paper and from the platform. How to study the Word of God for one's self, and how to teach it to others, are the two questions the answers to which Mr. Dunning seeks to give. In what other volume more good sense, knowledge of the Bible, acquaintance with human nature, and practical Christian devotion, all combined, have been brought to bear upon this subject, we do not know." — The Congregationalist.

"Mr. Dunning is an expert in Sunday-school work, the motive power in the Assembly Normal Union, a gentleman with persistent industry in research, a student with an analytical mind, a teacher's instinct, a leader's magnetism. Everything attempted is well done. It is loyal to the old-time standard ideas in every regard, reliable, safe, devout, comprehensive." — Journal of Education.

Bible Readings. By Susan L. Hatch.

Pp. 72. Price, cloth, 40 cents, net.

A very pleasant selection of Bible Readings, topically arranged, with hints for using the Bible, that can not fail to be useful to those who follow the directions.

"Sixty arrangements of Scripture quotations upon practical topics, for life and conduct. It will be found a very useful hand-book for Sunday-school superintendent and teacher, as well as for the prayer-leader in a social service." — Zion's Herald.

"An excellent little book, giving many sensible hints and suggestions for systematic Scripture study. A large number of topics are presented in their Biblical proportions, and the student will find in them much that is stimulating and helpful." — Interior.

"The fifty volumes contained in this Library have been procured at much expense, and selected by the publisher from a great number of manuscripts. They have been submitted to my inspection, and each volume has been examined. In no collection of so many volumes would any man be willing to indorse every sentence. This, however, as editor of the series, I may conscientiously affirm, that there is not a sentence in any of these books to which any Christian patriot can reasonably object, whatever may be his denominational attachments, his political affiliations, or his sectional residence. There were a few phrases to which I might have no special objections, which were inadvertently written and might be objectionable to very sensitive persons. These were promptly cut out of the plates by the publisher. Now, taken as a whole, the Library may safely be commended to families and Sunday Schools in any part of the whole country, and in any part of the church universal, as containing nothing but good books, many of which are very superior to the average of this class of literature. I believe that I am serving the cause of the Master in aiding in the circulation of these excellent volumes.

IN

THE MALE AND FEMALE,

BY

WM. A. HAMMOND, M. D.,

SURGEON GENERAL U. S. ARMY (RETIRED LIST). PROFESSOR OF DISEASES OF THE MIND AND NERVOUS SYSTEM IN THE N. Y. POST-GRADUATE MEDICAL SCHOOL AND HOSPITAL, ETC.

In One Handsome Octavo Volume,
Cloth, Price, Postpaid, $3.00.

It needed the master pen and unequalled clinical experience of this distinguished author to rescue from the mists of obscurity a subject entirely within the province of medical writers, and yet one which few have attempted, and none before with entire success, to illumine with the light of scientific facts.

All practitioners of experience must concede the malign effect of departures from normal sexual health on the general mental and bodily condition of the individual.

To clearly point out, therefore, the varieties and manifestations of impotence, and the proper treatment for the restoration of such patients to a normal condition of virile power, is a task which will be gratefully appreciated by the student and general practitioner, and one which Dr. Hammond has ably performed in this treatise with scientific thoroughness, and with his own inimitable grace of diction.

A volume on male impotence by this author has previously appeared, and it was received by the profession so enthusiastically that the large edition was soon exhausted. The demand for the book, and the frequent appeals to the author to complete the work by considering also female impotence, has led to the publication of this second and more complete edition, which will doubtless be regarded as a medical classic, without which no medical library will be considered complete.

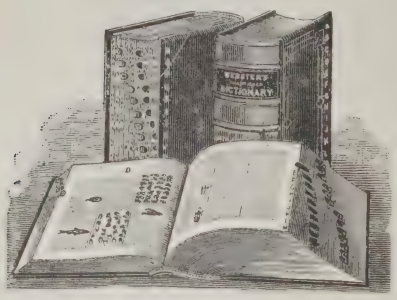
DENISON'S

REFERENCE INDEX.

APPLICABLE TO

Dictionaries, Catalogues, Blank Books,
Directories, Commercial Reports,
Atlases, Trade Lists, Cyclopedias, Periodicals.



REFERENCE BOOKS OF ALL KINDS, ETC.

It enables one to turn to any letter or subject with a single motion.

1st. If the book is lying with front cover up and it is desired to open to any word beginning with D, pass the finger under that letter on the cover into the cutting beneath it, and the book is instantly opened to the position of the volume in the above illustration.

2d. From this position one turns in the same way to any letter from E to M.

3d. To turn to any letter visible in the cuttings, as A to D or N to Z, place the thumb on the letter in the cutting, then grasp the adjacent leaves with the fingers, and the book is opened as before at a single motion.

The cuttings are colored, and the letters or abbreviations in the cuttings are gold, on thin black leather, so that the index proves an ornament, not a blemish, to the book.

It saves a large part of the time consumed in consulting books of reference, preserving them by reducing the handling, and will outlast even the best leather bindings.

This Reference Index is best and most cheaply applied in the original printing and binding of the book, and estimates will be cheerfully made printers, binders or publishers on all sorts of edition work.

In ordering any Reference books be sure always to specify "With Denison's Refer e nce Index."

The cost per volume of Denison's Reference Index, when applied in the original printing and binding of the book, is but trifling, but when it has to be applied completely by hand, the cost is necessarily very much more, as follows :

$2.00 on each copy of Webster's Unabridged Dictionary.
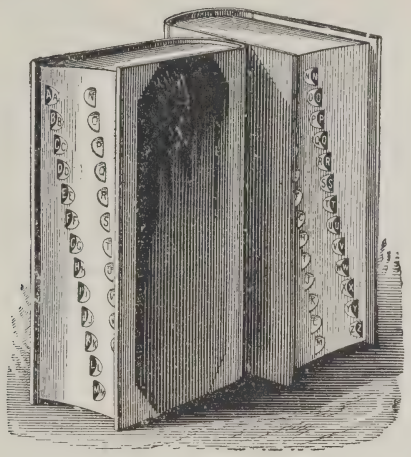
Worcester's " "
Lippincott's Gazeteer.
" Biographical Dictionary.
Harper's Latin Dictionary.
" Greek "



$1.50 each copy on
Adler's German and English Dictionary.
Surenne's French and English "

$1.00 each copy on
Academic Dictionaries, etc.

From the above prices any one can readily estimate approximately the cost according to the size, of having any book indexed with Denison's Reference Index complete.

DENISON'S DUPLEX INDEX.

Patented Oct. 7, 1884.

This is greatly inferior to Denison's Reference Index, but is much better than no index, and is used on cheap books such as city directories and other annuals, and all other books which require too many cuttings to admit the application of the Reference Index.

For convenience in description the letters in gold on the thin black leather in the cuttings are called primaries, and the other letters are called secondaries.

The secondaries in the Duplex Index are placed on the oblique walls of the cuttings opposite to the primaries, instead of on the margins of the leaves and covers of the volume, as in the Reference Index.

By this arrangement it will be seen that each letter appears twice in each cutting, so that one or the other will be visible when the leaves are turned either to the right or left.

The inferiority of the Duplex Index will be observed by any one on comparison and use side by side with the Reference Index, but from the facility of its application it is recommended for cheap books, which cannot or have not been indexed in printing and binding, as all valuable reference books ought to be, and for any other books requiring many cuttings.

The price for applying this Duplex Index, on any book, large or small, at any time, is fifty ($0.50) cents for each complete alphabet, or two dozen cuttings. For Bibles, $1.50 per single copy.

TO THE TRADE.

A discount is made from prices for application of either of the Reference or Duplex Indexes as follows:

On less than 10 Books of same kind, in one lot, 25 per cent.
On 10 to 20 Books of same kind, in one lot, 33⅓ per cent.
Over 20 Books of same kind, in one lot, 40 per cent.

For applying Index to all Reference Books in Public or Private Libraries, special estimates will be made.

One Hundred Valuable Receipts for the Young

Lady of the Period. Including the world-famous directions of How to Become "Beautiful Forever." By LADY BLESSINGTON.

Almost every one knows that this celebrated lady and accomplished writer, by title Countess of Blessington, retained her personal charms to an advanced period of her life, and that all the more distinguished statesmen, authors and poets of her time were never tired of eulogizing the brightness of her eyes, the blended pearly purity and rosy bloom of her complexion, and the graceful suppleness of her form. Much of this retention of her charms was owing to her observance of the rules laid down in her commonplace book, and which are transferred to these pages. By these charms she captivated such men as Lord Byron, Count D'Orsay and N. P. Willis.

No work has ever been published that can begin to compare with this, for every receipt given has been tried and thoroughly tested by Lady Blessington herself.....Price 10 Cents.

Bonaparte's Oraculum; or, The Book of Fate.

Only complete American, from the Fiftieth London, Edition. This is a fac-simile, perfect in every respect, of the famous original which was sold in London for One Guinea a copy. This is said to be exactly copied from the Book of Fate, obtained by the great Emperor Napoleon, and consulted, but not always acted on, by him. It has been remarked that "Happy had it been for him had he abided or been ruled by the Answers of this Oracle." No liberties have been taken with the original text in the translation than merely to adapt it to the usages of this country. It is said that an Egyptian found Kleber's assassination presaged by the Answers of this Oraculum; but that he was prevented by the aids-de-camp from approaching the general. The result is historical—Kleber fell beneath the assassin's stab.

This edition of the Oraculum being, as we have said, entire, is of course more to be relied on than the spurious, mutilated editions published by irresponsible persons. In this complete state it gives answers to questions suitable to persons in all and every condition in life, in every trade, occupation or profession, and to persons of either sex. Of all Oraculums this is best and cheapest. The printing is clear, the paper white, and the binding strong.....Price 10 Cents.

De Witt's Drawing-room Operettas.

Price 15 Cents Each.

The number of Musical Amateurs, both ladies and gentlemen, is not only very large, but is constantly increasing. And very naturally, for there is no more refined and pleasant mode of spending leisure hours than in singing and playing the choice productions of our best composers. Hitherto there has been an almost total lack of suitable pieces adapted to an evening's entertainment in parlors by Amateurs. Of course whole Operas, or even parts of Operas, require orchestral accompaniments and full choruses to give them effect, and are therefore clearly unfit for Amateur performance, while a succession of songs lacks the interest given by a plot and a contrast of characters. In this Series we have endeavored to supply this want. The best music of popular composers is wedded to appropriate words, and the whole woven into plots that are effective as petite plays—but are rendered doubly interesting by appropriate and beautiful music, specially arranged for them.

The F. W. ROBINSON SERIES

ROBINSON is "one of the few, the immortal few" authors who have described with thrilling accuracy every phase of human life, without ever sullying a solitary page by one impure idea or word. But he shows that purity of thought and language by no means necessarily leads to paucity of ideas or weak sentences; on the contrary, Robinson's books are models of striking plots, strongly chiselled characters, brilliant descriptions, and terse, vigorous and characteristic dialogue. In the portrayal of homelike scenes Robinson often rivals DICKENS, while many of his thrillingly eloquent portrayals of passions equal the "breathing thoughts and burning words" that have given BULWER his unquestioned niche among the master spirits of English literature.

1. ONE AND TWENTY; A Novel. Happy as the Author has been in the selection of his subject he has been still happier in his charming manner of treating it. He has made Love the dominant impulse of the young hearts that render this book the most delightful it has been our fortune to peruse.

2. WILDFLOWER; A Novel. Taking one of the most bewitchingly lovely creatures for his heroine the author takes her through trials and adventures that bring out all her latent glorious qualities, and render her the cynosure behind which cluster the other living personages of the book.

3. GRANDMOTHER'S MONEY. In this book Mr. Robinson strikes a higher and grander note than most of our novelists. Nobly, too, does he carry through his swelling theme. Avarice was never painted with his hideous features, and never have the craving sycophants who cringe to wealth been so forcibly pilloried for all time.

4. SWEET NINETEEN; A Novel. Again thrice welcome! say we to a new book by Robinson. The flowers of spring and the fruits of autumn are not more welcome; and, indeed, in this gifted author's books we find the choicest spring flowers of fancy, and the matured and juicy wisdom of the autumn of the mind.

5. UNDER THE SPELL; A Novel. Most aptly christened. It keeps every reader waiting with eager eye and bated breath through every richly painted page—pages that give reality to some of the best creations that ever the novelist's cunning and busy brain has formed.

6. THE HOUSE OF ELMORE; A Family History. Intensely melodramatic in conception and execution. A sombre pall envelopes the fortunes of this ill-starred family. The boding raven should have been their crest; but there are gentle, innocent creatures in these darksome pages that seem all the brighter and more beauteous by contrast with their gloomy surroundings.

7. ANNE JUDGE, SPINSTER. Of all the pure, loveable creations, by either poet or novelist, ANNE JUDGE, as here delineated, is one of the purest and most loveable. Her tender devotion to her poor, old, broken father, is as beautiful in its way as that of Little Nell for her aged grandsire. Warp and woof is full of generous human sympathies.

8. RUTH GARNET; or, Loves of the Earl of Rochester. The author has happily taken some of the most interesting passages in English History, and woven them into a tale of amazing interest. The heroine enlists our warmest sympathies in the outset, and retains them to the last, as she passes through her strange career.

9. THE HEIRS OF DERWENTWATER; A Novel. Unfortunately, it is but seldom that our critical vision is blessed by the pages of a book so completely excellent. The action of the story is refreshingly lifelike; no tiresome, discursive writing; onward, onward the reader is pleasantly hurried, till the last brilliant sentence is arrived at.

10. OLD NOLL; or, The Days of the Ironsides. No phase of English History affords such varied and effective pictures, either for the painter or the novelist, as that in which the Lord Protector swayed the iron sceptre over his native England. This book, while full of romantic incidents, gives an admirable idea of the conflicts between the Roundheads and Cavaliers.

11. HEADS AND HEARTS; or, My Brother, the Colonel. A book to be read, and read again, with renewed delight. The style is so clear that every description, every incident is revealed as plainly as the shells and pebbles through the translucent medium of a brook. The contests between heads and hearts, as in real life, is maintained with fierce earnestness.

12. THE SECRETARY; or, Circumstantial Evidence. The subtle web whose threads enmesh the leading character of this book is woven with a skill and deftness that remind us of the plottings of a Fouché or the artful imaginings of a Poe. We watch, with intense, unwearied interest, every slender filament that goes to strengthen the growing bonds.

13. SHIRA; A Novel. Those Arabs of civilization, the gipseys, have given subjects for many brilliant works of imagination, but we know of no book in which the dusky denizens of forest and woodland have been so successfully conveyed into the regions of fiction as in this book. It is the book of the season; and, indeed, few seasons witnesses the advent of such a charming book.

14. OZI; A Novel. This work points a moral in a most striking style. It shows the career of one who, letting passion take the helm, is borne into all the furious storms that beset the fiery, untamed souls of too many ardent youths. The work is full of thrilling and saddening scenes; too full, alas! of truth to be gainsayed.

Each of the above books makes a handsome 8vo volume; printed on fine white paper. Price 25 cents.

PIERCE EGAN'S STORIES.

THE author of the following great books has attained a success as genuine, and pronounced, in his peculiar field, as either Marryatt, Bulwer or Dickens. He has the wondrous faculty of imparting an intense and absorbing interest to his varied characters.—His plots are real miracles of ingenious complication, their denouments being riddles impossible of solution by the most penetrating of novel readers; and yet all is conducted to a natural and probable explanation. PIERCE EGAN'S popularity is continually on the increase, and most deservedly so—for he continually improves: so that his LAST seems always to be his BEST book.

1. The London Apprentice and the Goldsmith's Daughter.
Seizing upon one of the most striking periods of English history, the author has so effectively wrought his incidents as to produce a work that may successfully vie with Scott or Bulwer.

2. Lillian's Fate, or Lads of Old London.
These pages actually revivify the most picturesque of olden cities—London, with all its pageants, fights, and most romantic incidents of intrigue and love-making.

3. The Veiled Lady, or The Throne and the Scaffold.
Surely never were terribly impressive scenes described with such terribly impressive power, as in Egan's 'Veiled Lady.' The reader can easily imagine himself touching the blood-dripping scaffold.

4. Clifton Grey, or The Birthright Restored.
In 'Clifton Grey' Egan shows that it is not only in depicting 'castles grey and ruins hoary' that he excels. Here he employs his wizard stylus in describing modern phases of life and character.

5. Myra, or The Cruise of the Sea Bird.
Seldom have we an opportunity to 'praise so much, condemn so little,' as in this really charming romance. Pierce Egan happily blends the eternal truth with fiction.

6. The Snake in the Grass.
Another of Pierce Egan's truly great novels—great alike in conception and execution. The heroine is magnificently drawn, and stands out in loveliness, like the statue that enchants the world.

7. Lady Blanche, or The Castle and the Cottage.
In this delightful novel the author has depicted each extreme of life—the tenderly cherished lily of aristocracy and the little cared-for daisy of the humbler class. Both are painted to the life.

8. The Flower of the Flock,
Egan's power of rivetting the attention of his readers, is superior to that of any other writer. He may justly be styled 'the Homer of the stock' of modern novelists.

9. Ada Leigh, or The Love Test.
"Most assuredly no writer of our time discourses so eloquently of love affairs as does Egan. The sad distraught of broken heartedness, equally with the joyous rapture of a love returned, vivify his novels.

10. Love Me, Leave Me Not.
A good plot, excellent description, glowing periods, a maid all love and beauty, a youth of wit and promise. What more is needed?"

11. Lionel Joscelyn.
This book is no mere charavari of incidents, thrown together hap-hazard, but the labored production of a practiced scholar.

12. The Blue Eyed Witch, or Not a Friend in the World.
A life record of the tarnished career of one of the most angel-visaged beauties that ever blessed our sphere. Her sad, sad history, is full of tremulous throbs,

13. My Love Kate, or The Dreadful Secret.
The pallid features and clay-cold lips of despair, though wierdly pictured in those interesting pages, by no means form the staple attraction. There are many passages full of fervid utterances.

14. The Poor Boy, or The Betrayer Baffled.
Rarely have the struggles of youthful poverty been so truthfully and effectively portrayed. The author appears to have dipped his 'grey goose quill' into the magic inkstand of Dickens.

15. Mark Jarrett's Daisy, The Wild Flower of Hazlewood.
This is the cap-sheaf to a rich harvest of literary fame, which has been reaped in the field of literary labor. Mr. Egan may well be proud of his latest book.

16. Ever my Queen, or Only a Work Girl.
Again have we to chronicle the welcome appearance of one of Pierce Egan's brilliant productions. Fresh, original, vigorous and full of strong, sustained interest from the initial sentence to the close.

Uniform edition, octavo, nicely printed, on good paper, brown paper covers. Price 25 cents.

MARRYATT'S NOVELS.

DE WITT'S UNIFORM AND CHEAP EDITION.

PRICE FIFTEEN CENTS EACH.

NEWTON FOSTER. Gives a clearer idea of a seaman's existence than a voyage around the Horn. Neither terrible nor merry adventures are omitted. Indeed one passes from the cabin to the fo'castle as in real life.

MIDSHIPMAN EASY. This writer never wrote a dull book. Marryatt was every inch a sailor—knew a sailor's every foible, every whim, and has painted them to the life.

PETER SIMPLE. About the best sea story in the language. Thousands have laughed till the tears came, at the locker full of fun that the Captain opens for all—powder-monkey or middy alike.

PACHA OF MANY TALES. The many tales will be found equal to one another, and all excellent, and never tedious in length. Yet are they never, "like the cur's continuation," sut off too close to the ears.

THE PIRATE AND THE THREE CUTTERS. All kinds of visions arise before the reader's eyes—frowning men, clambering aboard contested craft; shots exchanged; cutlasses clashing—in short, a fierce encounter with the crew of the ship assailed.

THE KING'S OWN. Here we have unalloyed enjoyment—the sea breeze, the exciting episodes, the novel, interesting sights, scenes and persons, without the discomforts attending them. Most admirably has the author blended lights and shades in this great romance.

JAPHET IN SEARCH OF A FATHER. No writer has risen worthy to wield Marryatt's unrivalled pen. No reader ever regrets having started out with Japhet in his long, long, laborious search.

SNARLEYOW, THE DOG FIEND. "Snarleyow" will have been found guilty of making Daniel Lamberts of the human race. The person who has not yet perused this book has "a high old time" in store for him.

JACOB FAITHFUL. Marryatt knew every strand in a sailor's life, and there has never been one so able in portraying. Blow high and or blow low, the Captain is "always on deck."

FRANK MILDMAY. Perhaps in no other work does Marryatt better evince his wonderful power than he does in "Frank Mildmay." Whether "running under bare poles" or "carrying every stitch of canvas," none can beat the "Cap."

PERCIVAL KEENE. This writer knew every craft that ever floated, with a no less thorough knowledge of every wish, hope, fear that ever pulsated in a true heart. This has made Marryatt the best nautical novelist that ever lived.

PHANTOM SHIP. If anybody knows more about "Wizard Skiffs," and "Flying Dutchmen" than Marryatt "runs off" in this book, he can take our tarpaulin and the last "chaw" of Lorillard we have in the locker.

RATLIN, THE REEFER. The happiest days of our existence were when we were "laying off" in the foretop of old "Ironsides," reading this charming book to our all-delighted messmates.

THE POACHER. In this book Marryatt proves that he could write equally as well of "shore" life as of a "life on the ocean wave." The adventures of Joseph Rushbrook are very affecting.

POOR JACK. The life history of this little sea-side waif is one of the most truthful narratives of the troubles and trials of a sailor-boy's cruise that has ever been entered in the log-book of life.

MASTERMAN READY; Or, The Wreck of the Pacific. A book of wrecks, and coral isles, and orange groves, of dusky maids in the ocean billows, and of half-wild runaway sailor boys.

VALERIE. Evidently written by Marryatt to show that he was equally at home on the land as on the sea. Powerful and tender scenes dramatically portrayed and contrasted.

All of the above books are neatly printed, with paper covers, and make very nice volumes.

 Single copies sent to any address in the United States or Canada, postage free, on receipt of the retail price (as above).

WORKS OF SIR EDWARD LYTTON BULWER.

(LORD LYTTON.)

It is almost superfluous to say a word in praise of the prince of novelist. He holds the sceptre over the mind of every intelligent reader. For skillful plots, fine discrimination of character, and powerful delineation of passion, he has no equal.

Price 15 Cents Each.

RIENZI. This glorious Republican treads amid the broken pillars of the antique forum, and rouses his fallen countrymen. In this great book Bulwer admirably blends old heroic souls of the ancient Romans with the picturesque, and perhaps more loveable, personages of early Italy.

PELHAM; or, The Adventures of a Gentleman. Bulwer gives us an insight into the fashionable phase of London Society, and makes us acquainted with the real "higher classes."

EUGENE ARAM. Stripped of all embellishment, this is the most woful tale that was ever truly told; but told as Bulwer has narrated it, it would bring tears from any eyes, "howe'er unused to to the melting mood."

THE DISOWNED. No story was ever more full of striking incidents, or of more deeply cut characters. Truly a great novel; a novel, indeed, that has no superior among books of its class.

THE STUDENT. The thoughtful devotee of science is most poetically depicted. The interesting scholar, with his face "sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought," is a noble character.

THE CLAUDE DUVAL SERIES.

A notable man was Claude Duval, and in his day his whereabouts was as regularly chronicled as the movements of the royal family. He seemed to be ubiquitous; for hardly would the cry be raised that he had robbed some alderman of his diamond snuff-box and bag of guineas in Essex, before it was confidently asserted that he had stopped the travelling carriage of some fair duchess, and compelled her to dance a minuet before she could proceed on her way. The rascal was so clever that thousands of cases are given in this series in which he seemed to be doing ill for the fun of the thing. Of course it was no fun to his victims; nor, in the end, was it any fun to him. Price 15 Cents Each.

THE NIGHTSHADE SERIES.

Rightly named has been this series of very interesting books. Though much of the incident is such that it necessarily appears in the annals of highwaymen, still large portions of these works abound in other and equally interesting scenes. Love plays the mischief with the red-coated marauder as well as with his more honest victims; and startling are many of the scenes where a country lass discovers that her fine gentleman sweetheart was at best but a "minion of the moon." A very readable set of books, indeed. Price 15 Cents Each.

THE HANDSOME JACK SERIES.

One of the ablest writers in England has employed his time in writing this remarkable list of books. They abound in wonderfully smart descriptions of the strange acts necessarily following in a highwayman's career. Now boldly rifling coach passengers of their money; anon flying over hedges and ditches, with half a county mounted at their heels; now squandering their ill-gotten golden guineas in riotous living; anon writing their dismal epitaphs upon the damp walls of their cells. Life of strange vicissitudes—lessons to the unwary—flaming beacons to warn youth from reefs and quicksands. Price 15 Cents Each.

No.

1. Handsome Jack; or, The Shadow of the Scaffold.
2. Jenny Diver; or, The Female Highwayman.

THE JONATHAN WILD SERIES.

It is impossible to understand aught of the social life in England during the last century without knowing all about the highwaymen, and the detectives employed to capture and convict them. We need hardly say that Jonathan Wild was the most famous of the latter. The following books, while they exhibit the dashing outlaws in all their apparent success, follow them through all the sinuosities of their career till they reach their inevitable goal—the felon's cell and the scaffold of the condemned. Price 15 Cents Each.

No.

1. Jonathan Wild; or, The Daring Adventures of Paul Clifford.

DE WITT'S "GOOD BOOKS" SERIES.

ONLY 10 CENTS EACH.

This list of most interesting and instructive works includes almost every subject worth reading about. While there is nothing more thrilling to be found in the wildest pages of romance, parents can safely place all of these books in their children's hands, for they relate Facts, not Fancies. Reading such books as the following will wean the youthful readers from pernicious literature, and improve both their understanding and their taste.

De Witt's "Good Books" Series will be printed from new and elegant faced type, on very fine strong paper, in the neatest style. Many of the books are very handsomely illustrated with pictures of merit. These books will be issued in the order in which they are arranged below.

SCOUTS OF THE WEST; or, The Rifle and the Tomahawk.—Innumerable have been the histories and the stories giving more or less truthful accounts of Indian life: but none of them have come so close to the reality of the red man's way of living, hunting, fighting, and dying as this most readable book. It is written by one who was himself a prominent actor in the scenes he so vividly pictures; who had seen the deadly rifle poised, heard the whizzing of the death-bearing bullet, and felt a pang go to his very heart at the thud of the fated leaden pellet that sent a son or a father to a forest grave.

BITS OF HUMOR; or, Drolleries of Human Nature.—Any one that has the good luck to read this diverting book will wonder, as he laughingly turns over page after page, where the author contrived to find such a lot of amusing tid-bits. Many of the stories are screamingly funny, while others are full of that quiet humor that makes one mark every quaint point with a quiet chuckle.

THE BOOK OF CRIMES AND PUNISHMENTS.—Containing examples of terrible Russian punishments, Turkish barbarities, victims of the Guillotine, torturing a girl of thirteen, revenges of jealous Spanish women, a human vampire, breaking on the wheel. These are but a few examples of the awful instances of man's inhumanity to man. There are many more frightful atrocities recorded in this book of cases where fallible judges have got insanely drunk with the blood of the victims they have given over to torture and death.

WIGWAM AND CABIN; or, The Perils of the Early Pioneers.—Never were people more rudely tried in the furnace of suffering than were the hardy settlers who, bidding good-bye to ease and comfort, boldly struck out into the pathless forests of the unknown West, taking their lives in their hands, and never turning their faces to their old homes, but pressing on toward the setting sun, grappling with wild-cats and wolverines, grizzlies, and still more ferocious Indians. The pages of this work are full of startling surprises, and abound in passages of the most thrilling interest.

YANKEE STORIES, Illustrating Adventures of the Down-Easters This book contains a big lot of "genooine" Down-East fun, equalling the best yarns of Sam Slick and Major Jack Downing. Among a "heap" of other good stories are "The Butting Buck," "The Yankee in a Music Store," "One of the Courting Scrapes," "Zeke Jones's Story," "Zeph Timid's Adventures with the Gals," "Yankee Courtship," and ever so many more of the like kind. It's nothing but fun from the word "go."

IDLE HOURS WITH THE HUMORISTS.—Brimful of Fun about Yankee Yarns, Western Sports, Boarding-house Hash, Rich College Scrapes, Wild Widows' Wit, and Tall Tales of Sailors and Marines. There are no far-fetched jokes and thread-bare anecdotes in these pages. Everything is fresh, piquant, breezy; as lively as a close-reefed topsail blow, with the white caps dancing in wild antics in all directions.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES OF VARIOUS NATIONS.—This book will receive attention at the present time, when people are fully aroused to the necessity of indulging in active out-door exercise to combat the weakening and debilitating effects of the sedentary employments now necessarily so much in vogue. Here we learn how the Roman arm that conquered half a world first learned in childhood to subdue the waves; here we see how the Grecian athletes so strengthened and hardened their muscles as to defeat the thousands who fell under their swords at Marathon. In fact there never has been a Sport or Pastime of any account that is not fully and graphically described in this book.

STORIES OF THE WHALE; or, Perils of the Whale Fishery.—It was in skirmishing on the confines of the North and South Poles, driving the harpoon into the monsters of the deep, that our best and bravest seamen got those lessons in seamanship and manly courage which made them the most skillful and intrepid sailors that ever carried a ship into action. This work details everything about whalers and whaling, from the moment the crying 'prentice shins up the slippery side of the outward-bound craft till he returns, with more blubber and less blubbering, to enjoy the proceeds of his dangerous toils.

SCALPING KNIFE, and The Log Cabin in Flames.—This Book will compare with any one of its kind in deep and tragic interest.

HISTORY OF THE HORSE, and Thrilling Feats of Horsemanship Everything connected with the noblest of animals, the horse, always finds interested readers. All the great feats of horsemanship by the daring riders of different nations are here pictured with proper life and fire.

BOOK OF SHIPWRECKS, and Adventures on the Ocean.—Hardly one of the dreadful scenes in which strong ships have been shivered to splinters on iron-bound coasts or whelmed in the heaving surges of mid-ocean has escaped the writer's notice.

YANKEE DROLLERIES; or, Sketches of Down-Easters.—This book is full of those rare old stories that "beat all creation" as rib-ticklers and wrinkle-smoothers.

THRILLING STORIES ABOUT SNAKES and Snake-Charmers. Much as one loathes and shrinks from snakes, there is still a strange, contradictory feeling of fascination that conquers this repulsion and holds one spell-bound. Many of these narratives are new; all most strange and thrilling.

HUNTING THE ELEPHANT; or, Adventures in South Africa. All like to read about the daring hunters who pursue, capture and kill the largest and most knowing of animals, the elephant, undergo terrible privations, and run fearful risks to procure that ivory which has ever been an object of human cupidity.

HUNTING IN SOUTH AFRICA; or, Perils of a Forest Life.—Anything relating to this wild, weird land—the home of superstition and mystery—commands readers. These pages will interest equally with the most entrancing descriptions of Du Chaillieu and Stanley among the gorillas and dwarfs of the dark continent.

☞ Any of the above books sent, postage paid, on receipt of price, 10 cents.

OF
PRACTICAL RECEIPTS AND PROCESSES,
CONTAINING 6,422 PRACTICAL RECEIPTS,

Written in a plain and popular manner, and illustrated with explanatory wood-cuts. Being a comprehensive Book of Reference for the Merchant, Manufacturer, Artisan, Amateur and Housekeeper, embracing valuable information in the Arts, Professions, Trades, Manufactures, including Medicine, Pharmacy and Domestic Economy. The scope of this work is entirely different from any other book of the kind. Besides being a complete and almost indispensable book of reference for the thousand and one receipts and articles needed in every household, farm, garden, etc., it includes clear and easily understood directions for the application of many of the Arts usually acquired only by long experience, and so divested of technicalities, or the technical terms used so fully explained, as to bring the entire subject within the comprehension of any person of ordinary intelligence. It would be difficult to find any one of the 6,422 paragraphs in this work (many of which contain several receipts) that is not worth at least the price of the book to the person desiring to apply it. A great number of them are original contributions prepared expressly for the Encyclopedia, or are to be found only in rare and costly works. The Scientific American says: "It is worthy of a place in the library of any home, work-shop, factory or laboratory." Prominent among the immense mass of subjects treated of in the book are the following:

The Art of Dyeing.
Hard, Soft and Toilet Soaps.
Tanning.
Distillation.
Imitation Liquors.
Wines, Cordials and Bitters.
Cider.
Brewing.
Perfumery.
Cologne Water and Perfumed Spirits.
Flavoring Essences, etc.
Cosmetics.
Hair Dyes and Washes.
Pomades and Perfumed Oils.
Tooth Powders, etc.
Syrups.
Alcohol and Alcoholmetry.
Petroleum and Kerosene.
Bleaching and Cleaning.
Scouring and Cleansing.
Vinegar.
Sauces, Catsups and Pickles.
Receipts for the Garden.
To Remove Stains, Spots, etc.
The Extermination of Vermin.
Pyrotechny and Explosives.
Cements, etc.
Soluble Glass.
Waterproofing.
Artificial Gems.
Inks and Writing Fluids.
Aniline Colors.
Liquid Colors.
Paints and Pigments.
Drying Oils and Dryers.
Tests and Re-agents.
Painting and Paper-hanging.
Kalsomine and Whitewash.
Oil and Spirit Varnishes.
Varnishing and Polishing.
Lubricators.
Japanning and Lacquering.
Boot and Harness Blacking.
Photography.
Metals and Alloys.
Soldering and Welding.
Amalgams.
Gilding, Silvering, etc.
Electrotyping, Electroplating, etc.
Medicinal Preparations.
Patent Medicines, etc.
Medical Receipts.
Weights and Measures.
The Metrical System.

The extent of this compilation, the care with which it has been edited and published, and the simple but thorough system of arrangement and index by which its contents are made available for use in practice, combine to render it a highly valuable book. We have examined it; the description and formulæ which it contains appear to be accurate and judiciously selected. The list of authorities quoted and consulted by Mr. Dick comprises the most eminent scientific periodicals of Europe and America, and goes far to guarantee the scientific value of his receipts. For the household, it is calculated to be a precious vade mecum; while the practitioner in any industrial art will find much in its pages of especial interest to him.--PROF. ROSSITER W. RAYMOND, in the Engineering and Mining Journal.

This work is one of the most valuable ever issued from the press. It embraces an immense variety of chemical and mechanical processes, the explanation of which is aided by a large number of engravings.—Leffel's Illustrated Mechanical News.

Mr. William B. Dick has been at the great pains of compiling, and Messrs. Dick and Fitzgerald have had the business enterprise to publish, an octavo of six hundred pages, entitled an "ENCYCLOPEDIA OF PRACTICAL RECEIPTS AND PROCESSES." It would be difficult to say what is not contained in this compilation in the way of domestic industry and household economy. We should think it might be almost invaluable as a companion, guide, philosopher, friend, and physician to the country gentleman. There is hardly an exigency in the daily routine of the family that we can imagine, in which it would not prove useful in its suggestions.—New York Evening Post.

In looking through the book one is amazed at the industry and investigation of the compiler. No department of science and art has escaped the vigilance of of this universal "receipter." If you are an honest man you can find in this ENCYCLOPEDIA what an honest man desires to know; if you are a scoundrel, all the methods of counterfeiting and adulterating are ingenuously exhibited.—Boston Globe.

and fortitude, and thrilling adventures among the savage tribes, are among the best books issued. They are written in the clear and picturesque style that make the writer's works on the most interesting periods of French history so popular. The story of Boone, always a favorite with the young, is retold with singular vividness and freshness. In Miles Standish we have a picture of the hardships of the Pilgrims from the parting at Delft Haven to their perils in the wilderness, when threatened by famine and surrounded by savage foes. De Soto reads like a romance and the chivalric deeds of knight-errantry. His adventures among the Indian races, his grand discovery of the Mississippi, and his burial in its waters, have never before been told so clearly, connectedly and circumstantially.

Christopher Carson is the story of one of the most famous of the Western adventurers whose life is a romance of the wilderness.

Peter Stuyvesant gives a capital picture of the early history of New York before it passed into the hands of the English. The character of the eccentric old governor is vigorously drawn, and the whole narrative is no less entertaining than instructive.

If a career of daring and successful undertakings, of gallant conduct in battle, of fearless enterprises at sea, is worthy of record, the life-history of John Paul Jones deserves a place in our country's archives.

The life of Crockett is a veritable romance, with the additional charm of unquestionable truth. It opens to the reader scenes in the lives of the lowly and a state of semi-civilization of which but few can have any idea.

The wild and wonderful narrative of Captain Kidd forms a story which the imagination of Dickens or Dumas could scarcely rival.

La Salle was one of the purest and noblest of the pioneers of American civilization, and as such his history should be read and understood.

In Columbus we have again the story of the discovery of America, while the lives of Franklin and Washington take us among the times that tried men's souls, the dark days of the Revolution and the early years of the United States.]

For Family Worship, by LYMAN ABBOTT, D.D., Part 1, Scripture Selections; Part 2, Family Prayers. 12mo, cloth, red edges, $1.50.

["Dr. Lyman Abbott's book for Family Worship, will, I think, supply a real want. There are many people who desire to have regular family worship, but who do not feel equal to it without some such help as this book offers. Its Scripture passages are all pertinent to the occasions and ends for which they have been selected, and are so grouped as to be easily found when sought. Such of its prayers as I have read strike me as excellent. Many a young minister whose extemporaneous prayers are often unsatisfactory to both himself and his congregation may study them with profit."—PROF. E. G. ROBINSON, D.D., Brown University, Providence.

"Among books of its class it will find a prominent place. Dr. Abbott has performed his task with great care and discrimination. The volume is of convenient size and within the reach of all; as a directory and aid in the services of family devotion, it will be found suitable and valuable."—REV. WILLIAM ORMISTON, D.D., New York.]

Abbot (Willis J.). Blue Jackets of '61. A history of the Navy in the Rebellion, for young people. Quarto, cloth, with many full-page pictures of great interest, $3.00.

Atwater (Rev. E. E., D.D.). The Sacred Tabernacle of the Hebrews. With fifty full-page illustrations, octavo, cloth, $2.50.

["The book bears the marks of careful thought and of a judicious mind. The Tabernacle is first described: its furniture, its services, and its purpose are considered. The resources of modern scholarship are freely used. The light of modern discovery is wisely employed. Probably no more accurate idea of what the Tabernacle was in itself, or in its relations to Jewish worship, can be obtained than by the study of this work."—The Presbyterian.]

Baird (Chas. W., D.D.). A History of the Huguenot Emigration to America. 2 vols., octavo, with maps and illustrations, $5.00.

["Dr. Baird's work is indeed one that will interest every lover of Freedom, and every man who respects heroic conduct. Of course the descendants of the Huguenots, who preserve the old names and traditions, will find much in it to gratify them personally. But it is most to be prized for its excellent exposition of a very important popular movement that has not heretofore been fully measured by historians. Diagrams, maps, views of places, copies of documents, and other illustrations add to the value of this admirable production."—Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

"Such an historical work as this appears only at rare intervals. The author has shown himself admirably fitted for his work, and his publishers have issued his volumes in a style befitting their dignity and merits."—The Capital, Washington.

"Its appearance is certainly well timed; near the opening of the very year in which the bi-centennial anniversary of the revocation of the Edict of Nantes is to be commemorated throughout the Protestant world. It is scarcely probable that any other work so rich in historic lore, so fresh and full of varied interest, will mark this memorable year. Dr. Baird is a born historian, and thoroughly qualified by his life-long studies, and especially by the extensive researches which he has made in the archives of France and Britain, as well as America. The result of his studies and labors is a work of great and permanent value, not only to those of Huguenot descent, but to all who take an interest in tracing the causes and reading the history of the early settlement of this continent."—New York Observer.]

The Bow of Orange Ribbon. A Novel. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

The Squire of Sandal-Side. A Novel. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

"After so many novels of realism and analysis, one reads such a romance as this with the zest with which one puts a cup of clear, cold water to his lips after a journey through a dry and dusty land."—Christian Union.

"I want to thank you for the pleasure I have had in reading 'Jan Vedder's Wife.' It is the most natural story I have read in years, and is delightfully fresh and true from beginning to end."—J. HABERTON.

"The story is unpretentious, but it possesses uncommon merit; excelling in its reproductions of local scenes and colors, in its portraiture, and in the artistic development of its purpose."—Boston Globe.

"We have a fine sketch of life in the Shetlands as the background of an excellent domestic story. The scenes are striking, the characters are natural and strong, and the motive of the tale shows right feeling and insight. It is almost superfluous to add that 'Jan Vedder's Wife' is interesting from beginning to end."—New York Tribune.]

Bell (Robert). Songs from the Dramatists. Edited with notes and biographical sketches. One vol., 12mo, printed from new plates by De Vinne, $1.50.

["Lovers of quaint and delicious things in poetry will take delight in this collection. The author has in this volume grasped the most noted songs from the English dramatists, beginning with the writer of the first regular comedy and ending with Sheridan. The plan upon which the work is arranged furnishes the means of following the course of the drama historically, and tracing in its progress the revolutions of style, manners, and morals that marked successive periods."—Toledo Telegram.]

["Lovers of Mrs. Browning have long wished for a complete and satisfactory American edition of her works. There has indeed been a positive need of such an edition. That need is now filled by the five beautiful volumes published by Dodd, Mead & Company. ["The work of collecting and arranging the verses, was done by half a dozen lovers and students of Mr. Browning's poetry, and Mr. White's task has been to criticise the result of their joint labors, which were modified according to his suggestions. This he explains in the introduction, and of the collection itself he says: 'It presents, I am sure and presuming enough to say, Browning at his best, and nearly all the best of Browning.'"—Buffalo Commercial Advertiser.]

Bryan (Michael). Dictionary of Painters and Engravers. A new edition from entirely new plates. Revised and brought down to date. To be issued in about 12 parts. Price, per part, in paper covers, $1.75. Volume one (containing parts 1 to 6 inclusive) now ready. Imperial octavo, cloth, $12.00.

["Since the appearance of the last edition of Bryan's 'Dictionary of Painters and Engravers,' which was issued in 1849, the publication of many valuable works on art and monographs of artists, some of them embodying the results of careful researches amongst city records, guild-books, and church registers, particularly in Italy and in the Netherlands, has furnished many new sources from which material has been derived for the correction and enlargement of this work. Most especially is the editor indebted to the invaluable works of Messrs. Crowe & Cavalcaselle, Burckhardt, Milanesi, and Morelli on the Italian painters, of Messrs. Crowe & Cavalcaselle, Weale & Kramm on Flemish and Dutch art, and of the late Sir William Stirling Maxwell on the artists of Spain.

"Besides the addition of a large number of names which were not included in the former edition or its supplement, new authority has been given to every one of the old entries by a careful revision, and in most instances by important changes. In several cases the notices have been supplied by contributors specially qualified for the task, such as Mr. W. B. Scott, Dr. J. P. Richter, the late Mrs. Heaton, and others; these will be distinguished by the writer's initials. It is anticipated that the new matter introduced will enlarge the work to double its former size."—From the Preface.]

["The moral tendency of the books by this author is of the highest character, and as she is wont to take a subject which brings her into the domain of religious history she teaches lessons of the greatest value to young and old."—New York Observer.

The "Chronicles of the Schönberg-Cotta Family" illustrate most charmingly a page of history; to young people the dullest and driest, perhaps, if it is to be learned by D'Aubigné's "History of the Reformation."

Kitty Trevelyan is a sweet, earnest-thinking English maiden who lived in the days of the Wesleys, and has her orthodox Church-of-England piety somewhat stirred and deepened by their lives and preaching.

In the "Early Dawn" the Christian life of England in the olden time is depicted through several centuries, from its earliest dawn, in its contrasted lights and shadows down to the morning star of the Reformation.

"Winifred Bertram" is a story of modern life with its scene laid in the heart of London. "Delightful and charming are not properly descriptive of it, for while it is both it is more than both; it is of the kind of books that one cannot read without growing better."

"The Draytons and Davenants" starts with the first agitation of Protestantism as a political element in Great Britain and proceeds through the civil wars that followed.

In "On Both Sides of the Seas," opening with the tragic scenes of the Execution of Charles I., we have presented in the highly dramatic style of the author the establishment of the Commonwealth under Cromwell, its brilliant career, the Death of the Protector, and the Forcible Emigration to America on the Restoration of the prominent actors in the overthrow of the monarchy, etc., etc., etc., etc.]

["Isaac T. Hopper, with his knee-breeches, boyish jokes, and grand manly character, comes upon the reviewer like an old friend. When the reviewer was a small boy Isaac T. Hopper was a friend of the household, as he was of many Abolition households in the period just preceding the Secession war. His life has lost nothing of interest in the interval, and will come to a new generation as an inspiration to a noble life."—Chicago Alliance.]

"They are well done, open the way well to classic study, are full of interest on their own account. Excepting the Bible, nothing is better, if anything is so good. [The general reader knows, as a rule, barely that there have been Indian Wars. The general outlines of them cannot be given by one man in a thousand.

These books deal with the most romantic period of American History. Tecumseh, the greatest of the Shawnees, was perhaps the greatest genius of his race known in the annals of our country. The Life of Red Eagle throws light on the Creek War which broke out in Alabama in 1813, and was finally brought to an end by the bloody battle of Tohopeka fought by Jackson in 1814.

In "Montezuma" the authors have told the ever interesting story of the Aztecs and their last emperor in language at once simple and attractive. In "Brandt and Red Jacket" we have again the thrilling accounts of the struggles of our forefathers in the Middle States, while Pocahontas takes us to the first settlement of the Old Dominion.]

[" There is a quiet charm about the writings of Edward Garrett, a simple purity of thought, a high, but unpretending range of sentiment, a tender piety without Pharisseism, an expression and fulfillment, in fine, of cultured and modest Christianity, which is peculiarly satisfying to the soul in these times of worldly worry and worldly intensity."—N. Y. Evening Mail.

" 'Crooked Places' tells a healthful story of an English family reduced from wealth to poverty who overcame trials, and emerged from their struggles purified and developed."—Christian Era.

" The great value of Doing over Dreaming is illustrated by the history of two families who lived side by side, and the principle and necessity of having a worthy purpose in life, or an object to live for, and a willingness to do whatever is necessary to gain the end in view, is enforced in such a manner as to show the dignity and honorableness over a time-serving policy."—St. Louis Evangelist.

" The major part of the stories in the 'Dead Sin,' etc., have a decided moral tone and an equally decided merit. In so far as stories may read like actual facts we think these deserve the palm."—Philadelphia Age.

" At Any Cost " has its commencement in the largest of the Shetland Isles, the wild, rugged scenery of which is brought vividly before the mind's eye, while the fresh, strong breezes of the North Sea come invigoratingly on the senses. The characters of the two youths, Tom Ollison and Robert Sinclair, are as far asunder as the poles, and their development in the course of the story preserves their peculiar lines of thought and modes of action intact. Although both young men achieve success in the world of London, where they arrive in company, their roads lie far apart, and to neither would the position attained by the other have presented anything in which to rejoice as the climax of his desires.

Mr. Garrett has done good service in giving this wholesome story to the public. Without a word of preaching, it points unerringly to the right course, and not only young men and women, but older people, may learn many valuable lessons from its silent teaching.]

["The work is in three volumes, of which one is devoted to the letters and two to the poems. The volume of letters has been prepared by the grand-nephew of the poet, John Gilmer Speed, Esq., and will contain, in addition to those hitherto published, a number written by Keats to his brother George, in the United States. These were, to a considerable extent, memoranda of his daily doings, jotted down from time to time, so as to be ready for any chance vessel that might be sailing, and are full of most interesting references to his friends, as well as expressions of his own feelings and aims, such as would only be made to those most closely related to him. None of these American letters have ever been published complete and unaltered, and many of them now appear in print for the first time. An introduction to the poems has also been written by Mr. Speed. The text of the poems is that prepared by Lord Houghton, whose notes have been retained. The volumes contain portraits of the three brothers, John, George and Tom, reproduced in color from the originals in oil by Severn. In addition to the three portraits mentioned, there is an etching of the poet's grave, by Sabin; a fac-simile of the Original draft of one of the author's smaller poems, showing his erasures and emendations; the silhouette of Fanny Brawne, the head of Keats drawn by Severn in his last illness, the drawing from life by Severn, and a reproduction of the life-mask by Hayden."—Critic.]

[The sculptured monoliths of Copán and Quiriguá, reproduced in the plates, rank indisputably with the most interesting and noteworthy monuments of tropical America. They clearly betray the end for which they were produced—to display, embodied in stone, to the population settled in these regions, and to hand down to after-generations the religious ideas and traditions which reigned in the spiritual life of these people. The number of places in Central America which at the present day attract attention by the presence of these monolith statues is by no means large—that is, if we look for an assemblage of many such statues on one spot. In most of the better-known collections of ruins, the statues occur singly, or else, as in the case of Santa Lucia Cosumalhualpa, the sculptured figures are represented exclusively by reliefs.]

"Markham's 'King Philip's War,' is a plain unvarnished tale, a collation of established facts put in a very earnest, straightforward manner. The early chroniclers have been freely drawn upon by the author, and the book is a very compact, comprehensive and reliable history of some of the most stirring times in our New England life."—Boston Post.

original negatives taken expressly for Mrs. Mitchell, and intended to accompany her book. With descriptive text. In portfolio. Folio, $4.00.

["Our author has brought to her stately task a thorough understanding of her subject, an exquisite modesty and long years of thoughtful travel in lands where art was cradled and where its greatest glories were achieved."—Chicago Tribune.

"One of the most valuable contributions so far made to the history of art. Mrs. Mitchell treats of the productions of the sculptor's chisel in connection with all the different phases of life—religious, political, social and æsthetic—to whose service they were devoted. Much light is thrown upon ancient art by a study of the institutions and history of the ancient peoples, and conversely, the study of all art-products enables us to reach a better understanding of the life and times of the people among whom they originated. The work will at once be accorded a place among the classics in art literature."—N. Y. World.]

["One cannot turn to the pages of this great work of Rawlinson's without ever-growing wonder. It is a standing monument of one of the most marvelous of modern achievements. Almost the entire contents of these large and well-filled volumes, replete with information respecting the famous monarchies of ancient Asia, represent a positive addition to historical knowledge made within the present generation. The great empires of the East were but a few years since little but empty names. Some vague stories survived of the magnificence of their capitals and of the grandeur and exploits of a few kings, and the rest was a total blank. And now to our amazement we behold these empires, which had fallen to decay one after another, before the father of history began his gossiping narrative, rescued from the oblivion of ages, and we are set face to face with Success with Small Fruits. Square 8vo, beautifully illustrated. $2.50.

[WITHOUT A HOME.—"The ultimate design of the story is to trace the origin and growth, and exhibit the pernicious results of the morphia habit. Mr. Roe has graphically, and at times powerfully and dramatically, portrayed its influence to wither and destroy manhood and to wreck the happiness of the family. The harrowing incidents which are the consequence of the evil are not so ostentatiously exhibited as to be revolting, but are ingeniously distributed over a story that has a substantial and independent interest of its own."—Harper's Magazine.

NEAR TO NATURE'S HEART.—"His

FROM JEST TO EARNEST.—"His plots are never commonplace. The change in Lottie's character is well delineated, and with a naturalness and artistic skill which we do not often find in the so-called religious novels."—Harper's Magazine.

A DAY OF FATE.—"It is a love story, pure and simple, of the type that belongs to no age or clime or school, because it is the story of the love that has been common to humanity, wherever it has been lifted above the level of the brutes."—New York Observer.

BARRIERS BURNED AWAY.—"We accord a hearty commendation to this work. The narrative is vigorous, often intense, but rarely if ever melodramatic. Its language is usually no less chaste than forcible and impressive. It betrays a power of invention and description which is not met with every day in the best of writers of popular fiction."—DR. RIPLEY, in the New York Tribune.

OPENING A CHESTNUT BURR.—"The character of the selfish, morbid, cynical hero, and his gradual transformation under the influence of the sweet and high-spirited heroine, are portrayed with a masculine firmness which is near akin to power; and some of the conversations are animated and admirable."—Atlantic Monthly.

A FACE ILLUMINED.—"The author does not, as is often the case, make the moral design an excuse for literary shortcomings. His characters are stamped with a strong individuality, and depicted with a naturalness that indicates a keen student of human nature and modern life."—Boston Traveler.

HIS SOMBRE RIVALS.—"A strong story. A study of love and of war; a tale of army service during the Rebellion, and of the home life that waited so anxiously on it. It is a study, too, of love and suffering, and an argument against atheism, but not a controversial one—the story itself is the argument."—Philadelphia Inquirer.]

King among books is a Cyclopedia. What is the argument in favor of buying? It is the high argument of reason and common sense, and is three-cornered. First, and least, is its convenience. You can't take time to run to a library whenever you want a little out-of-the-way information. Keep a well-filled store of it in your own house. It would take all the text-books in a school to answer the questions that a single good Cyclopedia will answer. Second. It is a great commercial arbitrator. A lawyer recently won an important case by bringing his Cyclopedia into court. It was a good witness. It spoke with authority. The men that write a Cyclopedia are the same that write the lawyers' books, and the physicians' books, and all the great works that have a voice. Its great realms of knowledge can be ploughed and cropped. Buy it, then: it's business. Third. It is a great educator. Buy it for the children, and let them grow up on it. Buy it, and then let them ask all the questions they want to. It will answer them all. Children grow tall that are fed on knowledge, and the horizon widens as we uplift. King among books is a Cyclopedia.

MONOTINT BOOKS.

The novelty we introduced last year (Season Songs and Sketches) proved such an instantaneous success in every part of the country, that we have made monotint books a leading feature for the coming season. Our German lithographer, E. Nister, has NO EQUAL as a printer in color and monotint.

These books are printed in from four to seven tints and type. All are bound in attractive light tinted Dalton covers, with rounded corners, gilt edges, and gold cord tied in a bow and warranted strongly bound; very neatly wrapped and put up in dozens.

GEORGE H. ELLIS,

141 FRANKLIN STREET, BOSTON.

ABBOT (Prof. Ezra, D.D., LL.D.). The Authorship of the Fourth Gospel: External Evidences. 8vo. 104 pages. Paper, 50 cents. Cloth, 75 cents.

——— The Fourth Gospel, and other Critical Essays. Selected from the published writings of the late EZRA ABBOT. (In press.)

This volume will not only reproduce Dr. Abbot's masterly essay on the external evidences for the genuineness of the Fourth Gospel, with the many minute supplementary annotations it received from the unwearied hand of its lamented author, and equipped with indexes which will materially facilitate access to its varied contents, but will include the Cambridge Professor's elaborate essays on the leading doctrinal passages of the New Testament, the text of which is still in debate, together with several articles of a more general interest, among them the sketches of the critical labors of the late Professor Tischendorf and Dr. Tregelles, together with the papers giving an account of the textual changes introduced into the recent revision of our English New Testament.

The volume will thus, it is hoped, form an appropriate memorial of one of our most eminent Biblical scholars, render accessible to the expert articles now lying scattered in various periodical publications, and furnish all interested in Scriptural subjects with varied information of the most trustworthy character.

These analytical essays, by one of the most eminent musical authorities, are sufficiently technical to be of great value to the student of music; while at the same time they are popular enough to be intelligible and useful to the general reader. TALBOT (George Foster). Jesus: His Opinions and Character. The New Testament Studies of a Layman. Crown octavo. 471 pages. Cloth, $1.50.

"Much time and profound study have been needed for the thoughtful work entitled 'Jesus: His Opinions and Character. The New Testament Studies of a Layman.' Whoever the layman may be, he is one accustomed to dealing with evidence, which he treats in a lawyer-like fashion, and in a peculiarly direct and simple style. While his conclusions will be classed by many as rationalistic, in that they make Jesus simply a great moral teacher, and set aside as fabulous much of the Scripture on which theological dogmas have been based, the tone of the volume is still reverent and high. There is neither the sentimentality nor the adulation of Renan and his school, as if dethroned Deity were to be appeased by compliments; nor is there the unnecessary sneer, the offensive irreverence of another school. The writer is one of that great sect of 'seekers' the nineteenth century furnishes,— eager for truth, and accepting its highest teachings everywhere. He deserves respect as an honest and earnest thinker. The volume is handsome and substantial, and there is a careful table of contents."—The Continent, Philadelphia.

It has not been hastily written to meet a sudden popular demand, but is rather the result of conscientious labor in leisure hours for several years, and it will unquestionably be a welcome visitor in thousands of families all over the land in which Miss Parloa's name and fame alike are familar. The book describes minutely an ideal kitchen, tells what furniture, utensils and stores should be provided for it, explains clearly the uses, and states the value of various kinds of food, contains bills-of-fare for all sorts of occasions, shows how tempting meals may be quickly cooked when unexpected guests come, give explicit instructions abou diet for the sick, and includes also as choice a collection of receipts in all departments of cookery as can be found in any ever published. WORKS ON MAGNETISM.

There is now an increasing interest in the facts relating to Magnetism, Hynatism, etc., as the people are awakening to the importance of a knowledge of the subject, and we present below a list of the most important Works published.

Practical Instructions in Animal MAGNETISM. By J. P. F. DELUZE. Translated by Thomas C. Hartshorn. New and revised edition, with an appendix of notes by the Translator, and Letters from eminent physicians, and others. 524 pages, 12 mo, extra cloth, $2.00.

The above work was out of print for several years, but believing it to be in many respects the best, in fact the only exhaustive work containing instructions, we have been led to publish a new and revised edition. The following selections from chapter-headings will show something of the nature of this: "THE PROCESSES CONSIDERED; THE EFFECTS AND THEIR INDICATION; THE ACCESSORY MEANS TO INCREASE MAGNETIC ACTION AND THOSE BY WHICH THE DIRECT ACTION IS APPLIED; THE CAUTIONS NECESSARY IN THE CHOICE OF MAGNETIZER; THE APPLICATION OF MAGNETISM TO DISEASE AND ITS CONNECTION WITH DISEASE; THE MEANS OF AVOIDING INCONVENIENCES AND DANGERS; THE MEANS OF DEVELOPING IN ONE'S SELF THE MAGNETIC FACULTY, AND DERIVING ADVANTAGE FROM IT." In the notices of the first edition of this work, the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal said: "Aside from any particular feelings of dislike or partiality for the subject of Magnetism, candor obliges us to acknowledge that this compact manual is a very captivating production. There is a peculiar manifestation of honesty in the author, who writes what he considers to be substantially true, without any reference to the opinions of the world. Having no guile himself, he seems to be unwilling to believe that any one else can be induced by bad motives. Fully aware of the ridicule to which the devotees of Mesmerism have been subjected, he shows no disposition to shun the criticism of those who have endeavored, from the very beginning, to overthrow the labors of those who are toiling in the new field of philosophy."

How to Magnetize; or, Magnetism and Clairvoyance.—A practical Treatise on the Choice, Management and Capabilities of Subjects, with Instructions on the Method of Procedure. By JAMES VICTOR WILSON. 18mo, paper, 25 cents.

A very complete little Manual on this subject, and containing more than has before been published in so small a space.

The Boston Globe says: "Every merchant believes he understands this subject a trifle better than his neighbor; but some merchants remain poor while some neighbors become rich. The difference in success between them is not often due to chance, but generally may be traced to principles neglected by the one and taken advantage of by the other. Intelligent observation and study are required in business, as in the professions; and the most successful in trade and commerce are those who see best, and work best."

The Philadelphia Commercial List and Price Current says: "Every store-keeper should own this work, and see that it is placed in the hands of his clerks if he would have them intelligent workers with him, and not mere machines."

LIBRARY OF HUMAN NATURE.

We have commenced the publication of a new serial with the above title, in which will be published comprehensive papers on various topics related to the study and development of character. Number one, which will be ready very soon, is devoted to the subject of Self-Esteem or Self-Reliance. The right and wrong use of the faculty, how to determine its influence in the character, how to cultivate or restrain it in children, ourselves and others, how to deal with people, including children, servants and others, who have this faculty, either strong or weak, in a marked degree. Its relation to character in all its bearings will be fully considered and the subject amply illustrated by new engravings and with appropriate anecdotes and incidents bearing on the subject. It can be read with pleasure and profit by every one. The following numbers will take up Conscientiousness, or love of justice; Approbativeness, or love of praise; Acquisitiveness, or love of gain, and other topics of equal importance, and those in which every student of Human Nature will be interested. Each number will be complete in itself, and not dependent on any other. CHILD-CULTURE.

Devoted to the interests of Parents, Kindergartners, and Primary Teachers.

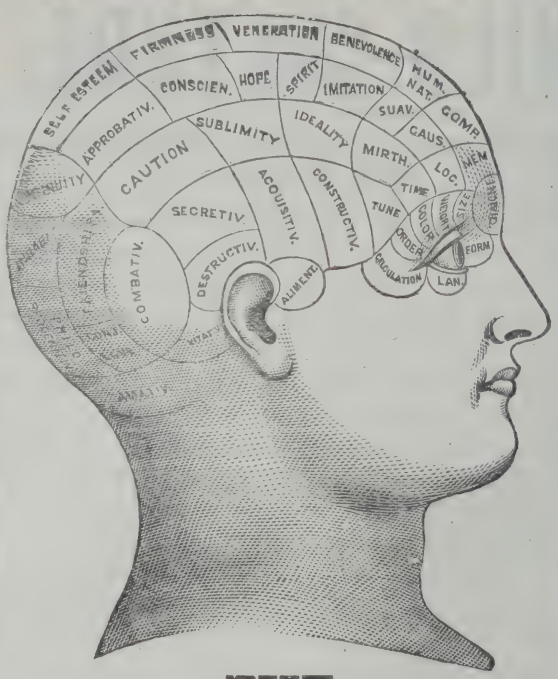
This magazine (formerly the American Kindergarten) especially considers the mental, moral and social culture of young children. Every question involved in this subject is discussed in these pages. There are valuable magazines devoted to the health interests and welfare of babies; others are devoted to the entertainment of children, but this magazine enters a new field. It is a pioneer in a land about which there has been much questioning and anxiety. "How shall I teach my child to see things correctly—to hear accurately—to speak gently—to obey implicitly—to repeat truthfully—to walk gracefully—to sit naturally—to eat properly—to play healthfully—to dress tastefully—to treat all persons considerately—to act promptly—to behave at all times, and in all places decorously—to treat his parents courteously? In fact, what must I do, and how best can I do it, that my children may grow up noble in principle, pure in thought, charming in manner and happy in disposition." These questions assail every guardian of a little child, but more especially the mothers and teachers.

MOTHERS will find in these pages a flood of light on these and other questions, relating to the training of their children. The department of "MOTHER'S IN COUNCIL" is open to their inquiries and comments.

PRIMARY TEACHERS will be benefited, not only by a general consideration of the subject, but by the detailed experience of successful teachers in this department of schoolwork.

KINDERGARTNERS will find every line of the magazine of use to them. Especial consideration will be given to this phase of Child-Culture. Instructions and suggestions as to the use of material, the best methods for the home, the small school, or the large mission field of work which is now being occupied by teachers of this class, are given by experienced Kindergartners.

Every one responsible for the proper training of children, from the period of infancy to youth, should be a reader of this magazine.



CHILDREN'S SUPPLEMENT, separately bound, is included with each number, in which are given lessons on the Animal Kingdom, Kindergarten work, Recitations, Skeleton-stories, and other matter which will interest the little ones, and be found a further aid to the work, the whole constituting a double magazine of great value to the class for whom it is intended.

Terms $1.00 per year. 10 cents a number. AGENTS WANTED.

A Choice of Premiums.

THE PHRENOLOGICAL CHART.

A handsome symbolical Head, made from new and special drawings designed for the purpose. The pictorial illustrations show the location of each of the phrenological organs, and their natural language. It will help to locate readily the faculties, and at the same time give a correct idea of their functions. The Head is about twelve ins. wide, handsomely lithographed in colors and on heavy plate paper about 19 x 24 ins., properly mounted, with rings for hanging, or may be framed, and will be very attractive wherever it is seen. Price, $1.00. Is given to each new subscriber, or the Bust Premium.

THE PHRENOLOGICAL BUST.

This bust is made of Plaster of Paris, and so lettered as to show the exact location of each of the Phrenological Organs. The Head is nearly life-size and very ornamental, deserving a place on the centre-table or mantel, in parlor, office, or study, and until recently has sold for $2.00. This, with the illustrated book which accompanies each Bust, should be in the hands of all who would know "How to Read Character." It is now offered as a Premium to each new yearly subscriber to The Phrenological Journal, or we will send the Chart Premium.

THE PHRENOLOGICAL JOURNAL

Is widely known in America and Europe, having been before the reading world fifty years, and is occupying a place in literature exclusively its own, viz., the study of Human Nature in all its phases, including Phrenology, Physiognomy, Ethnology, Physiology, etc., together with the "Science of Health," and no expense will be spared to make it the best publication for general circulation, tending always to make men better physically, mentally, and morally. Parents should read the Journal, that they may better know how to govern and train their children. Young people should read the Journal, that they may make the most of themselves. It has long met with the hearty approval of the press and the people.

N. Y. Tribune says: "Few works will better repay perusal in the family than this rich storehouse of instruction, which never fails to illustrate the practical philosophy of life, with its lively expositions, appropriate anecdotes, and agreeable sketches of distinguished individuals."

N. Y. Times says: "The Phrenological Journal proves that the increasing years of a periodical is no reason for its lessening its enterprise or for diminishing its abundance of interesting matter. If all magazines increased in merit as steadily as The Phrenological Journal, they would deserve in time to show equal evidences of popularity."

Christian Union says; "It is well known as a popular storehouse for useful thought. It teaches men to know themselves, and constantly presents matters of the highest interest to intelligent readers, and has the advantage of having always been not only "up with the times," but a little in advance. Its popularity shows the result of enterprise and brains."

Sunday-School Times says: "A great amount and variety of useful and and instructive matter finds its way into this Phrenological monthly. It is progressive and liberal, in the good sense of those terms—a readable, valuable journal."

TERMS.

The Journal is published monthly at $2.00 a year, or 20 cents a Number. To each new yearly subscriber is given either the Bust or Chart Premium described above. When the Premiums are sent, 15 cents extra must be received with each subscription to pay postage on the Journal and the expense of boxing and packing the Bust, which will be sent by express, or No. 2, a smaller size, or the Chart Premium, will be sent by mail, post-paid.

Send amount in P. O. Orders, P. N., Drafts on New York, or in Registered Letters, Postage-stamps will be received. Agents Wanted. Send 10 cents for specimen Number, Premium List, Posters, etc. Address

¶ANALYTICAL CONCORDANCE to the Bible on an entirely new plan. Containing every word in alphabetical order, arranged under its Hebrew or Greek original, with the literal meaning of each and its pronunciation. Exhibiting about 311,000 references, marking 30,000 various readings in the New Testament. Designed for the simplest reader of the English Bible. By Robert Young, LL.D. Fourth revised authorized edition, printed on heavy paper. One large volume, 4to, cloth, $5.00; sheep, $6.00; French imperial morocco, $7.00; half morocco, $9.00; full morocco, $12.00. ☞This is the only authorized edition in America.

Points of Superiority over Cruden's Concordance:

1. Young's exceeds Cruden's unabridged by over 118,000 references.
2. Young's contains over 70,000 Greek and Hebrew original words—all analytically arranged under their English title. Cruden's has not one—a lack greatly lessening its usefulness to the critical scholar.
3. Young's is analytical in character, giving the various shades of meaning of several related words which in English are represented by one word. Cruden's is synthetical, and makes, as the basis of its parallel references, the English word only.

"Worthy of the lifetime of labor spent upon it."—John Hall, D.D.

"By far the most complete Concordance in the English or any other language."—Philip Schaff, D.D.

"Cruden's Concordance is child's-play compared with this gigantic production."—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

ARCHIBALD MALMAISON. By Julian Hawthorne. 12mo, 126 pp., paper, 15 cts.; cloth, 75 cts. (S. Lib., 112.)

"It must be admitted that upon the shoulders of Julian Hawthorne has descended, in no small degree, the mantle of his more illustrious father. The climax of this story is so terrible, and so dramatic in its intensity, that it is impossible to class it with any situation of modern fiction."—The London Times.

BEFORE AN AUDIENCE; or, the Use of the Will in Public Speaking. Talks to the Students of the University of St. Andrews and the University of Aberdeen. By Nathan Sheppard. 12mo, cloth, 75 cts.

"I shall recommend it to our three schools of elocution. It is capital, familiar and racy, and profoundly philosophical."—Joseph T. Duryea, D.D.

"They are very racy and earnest talks, full of sense, and most delightfully dogmatic. The author knocks to flinders the theories of elocutionists, and opposes all their rules with one simple counsel: 'Wake up your will.'"—The N. Y. Evangelist.

"Elocutionists, take notice! Your craft is in danger, your occupation is threatened! That is to say, if public speakers will heed the advice of the author of this book. How many beautiful stories of the advice given by actors and orators he spoils! How many beautiful bubbles he bursts! The 'talks' are decidedly interesting, witty and philosophical. No public speaker can fail to get much good from Mr. Sheppard's suggestions, and no one can fail to find every page of real value."—National Baptist.

This book is a series of meditations, to state what the Bible, upon a natural and common-sense construction of its language, says about the Heaven to which it so often refers.

"The reader will be surprised at the extent of the information which the Bible gives upon this subject when a common-sense construction is given to its language. The book will be found comforting and refreshing to all who are looking in faith for a better country, even a heavenly."—The Methodist Recorder, Pittsburgh.

Other Theological Works.

Oehler's Old Testament Theology.	Peters' Theocratic Kingdom (Eschatology), 3 vols.

This "Bible Students' Library" is essentially theological in character. The works are carefully edited—many of them by eminent American scholars. The type is clear and the binding is chaste, strong and durable, yet flexible enough to open flat without a spring in the leaves, so annoying in works of reference. We append two of the many testimonials from eminent American scholars as to the workmanship of "The Bible Students'" edition:

"You have my opinion as to the great merits of the work (Pusey). Let me add that your edition is most attractive in appearance and convenient in size and shape."—Morgan Dix, D.D.

"I have given you my estimate of Pusey. I will add that your edition is most admirable. My edition was large and cumbrous—almost like a family Bible; but your edition is the very thing for the student. Its size, handy; its type, clear, and its whole appearance a credit to American typography and manufacture."—William M. Taylor, D.D.

BIBLE TREASURY. See "Analytical Bible Treasury."

BIBLICAL LIGHTS AND SIDE-LIGHTS; or, Ten Thousand Biblical Illustrations, with Thirty Thousand Cross-References, consisting of Facts, Incidents, and Remarkable Statements for the use of Public Speakers and Teachers; and also for those in every profession who for illustrative purposes desire ready access to the numerous and interesting narratives contained in the Bible. By Rev. Charles E. Little. 8vo, 632 pp., cloth, $4.00; sheep, $5.50.

"Other books are designed to illustrate the Bible. This reverses the order, and furnishes illustrations from the Bible for every purpose. It meets a want which the concordance cannot supply, because the latter is limited in its references to the words in which the Bible is printed. This work takes topics, such as 'ambition,' 'amusement,' and draws from the Bible illustrations and reference applicable to such topics. It is very comprehensive, and is valuable as an aid to centralizing thought."—The Christian Intelligencer, New York.

CAPTAIN OF THE JANIZARIES, The. A Historic Novel of Great Value. By James M. Ludlow, D.D. 12mo, 404 pp., cloth, $1.50.

Though the story is in the form of romance, it is more than "founded upon fact." The details are drawn from historical records, such as the chronicles of the monk, Barletius—a contemporary, though perhaps a prejudiced admirer, of Scanderbeg—the later Byzantine annals, the customs of the Albanian people, and scenes observed while travelling in the East.

"It stirs the blood in our veins, and makes us eager to take up again our pilgrim's staff, and revisit those lands of the East which have been the scene of such great events in the history of mankind, and on which, we believe, the curtain is again to rise, revealing other great events still in the future."—Dr. Field, in the New York Evangelist."

DAY IN CAPERNAUM, A. By Dr. Franz Delitzsch, Professor in the University of Leipzig. Translated from the third German edition by Rev. George H. Schodde, Ph.D., Professor in Capital University, Columbus, O. 12mo, 166 pp., cloth, 75 cts.

The description of the localities as they now appear is based, although not exclusively, on the works of Robinson; their reproduction in their older form is based on the notices scattered in Josephus, the Talmud, and the Midrashim, for which the author was not restricted to those already collected by Reland, Lightfoot, Schwarz, and Neubauer. The illustrations of the times and of the life of the people are in nowise the work of fiction; they are throughout drawn from the oldest Jewish literature.

DEATH OF HEWFIK PASHA. A Confession. 12mo, cloth, 60 cts.

The narrative, or "Confession," as it is called, is highly interesting, not to say exciting. It will serve to recall the mystery and excitement caused some years since by the assassination of Hewfik Pasha, ex-Prime Minister of the Sultan. This claims to narrate the circumstances which led up to the murder, and to be the confession of the person who did the deed.

"A bright, cheery novel, full of instruction as well as amusement."

"Remarkably well written. . . . DESTRUCTION OF GOTHAM, The. A novel. By Joaquin Miller. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

This is a most graphic story of the times, showing the conflict between the upper and lower stratas of society in New York, ending in a great disaster to the city itself. It is an intensely interesting and powerful story. Joaquin Miller is a writer whose fame is world-wide.

"His writings are charged with passionate life, and display a fervor of poetic appreciation and sympathy, combined with startling beauty and power."—The London Times.

DICTIONARY OF LIVING DIVINES. Being a Supplement to the Schaff-Herzog Encyclopædia. By Philip Schaff, D.D., LL.D., and Rev. Samuel M. Jackson. Large 8vo, cloth, $3.00; sheep, $4.00; half morocco, $5.25; full morocco, $7.00.

This book is a complete and authentic cyclopædia, with biographical sketches of all the prominent living preachers, theological professors, church dignitaries, religious authors and editors, and other Christian workers, of all churches and all countries.

It is intended as a supplement to the Schaff-Herzog Religious Encyclopædia published in 1884, in three volumes; that work excluded men now living, as did also the German Encyclopædia of Herzog.

Besides living celebrities, the volume includes sketches of divines who have died since the completion of the Religious Encyclopædia (1884) and a few others who were inadvertently omitted.

The editors have aimed at the greatest possible accuracy and completeness, as well as strict impartiality, in the desire to make a useful and reliable book of reference for readers of all denominational and theological schools.

"What gigantic diligence; masterly, minute precision; entire reliability; inexhaustible wealth of matter."—Professor Dr. Kurtz, Germany (Church Historian).

"This is a work which must have cost immense labor and research, and is a very useful and interesting compilation. By its breadth of inclusion it has a corresponding extent of worth, for it serves to introduce the leading Christian workers of either country to their brethren of the others. It is impartial in its outlook, embracing men of all denominations of Christians in the two worlds, and though the notices are necessarily brief, they are full and complete in their record of essential facts. It will become a standard book of reference for readers, and especially writers for the periodical press, who have here at hand information for which they might search far and wide, and sometimes without success."—The Watchman, Boston.

Wilkinson. 12mo, 177 pp., paper, 15 cts.; cloth, 75 cts. (S. Lib., 128.)

"Mr. Wilkinson strikes his foe with a smile and a bow, and with true knightly good nature, but his rapier is sharp both at the point and along the edge. As to the historic truth and the wholesome quality of Arnold's poem, Mr. Wilkinson had a strong case to begin with, and it grows stronger in his hands. He deserves well for his assiduous examination into the facts, and for the full and complete way in which he has gone over the whole poem. His examination is all the better for the excellent spirit in which it is conducted, the good-natured humor and wit it brings into play, and the nice and even playful turn given to many of his hardest hits."—The Independent, New York.

EVERY-DAY RELIGION. See "Talmage's Sermons."

FINAL SCIENCE; or, Spiritual Materialism; being a strict Application of the most approved Modern Scientific Principles to the Solution of the deepest Problems of the Age. 12mo, 75 cts.

Agnosticism receives a deadly thrust at the hands of this distinguished writer, who prefers to withhold his name. He writes as a Materialist of the most advanced school, and the purpose and scope of the book are to reconcile the established facts of science to his theory of Atheistic Evolution as "The Final Science." Of course, he utterly fails in the attempt, and yet he clings to his scientific theory. The lesson is obvious. There is great skill and marked ability displayed.

HISTORICAL LIGHTS; or, Six Thousand Historical Extracts, illustrating Thirty Thousand Topics. Especially arranged for Ministers, Lecturers, Public Speakers, Writers for the Press, Lawyers, and all who have Occasion to use Illustrations drawn from Historical Literature. Compiled by Rev. Charles E. Little, author of "Biblical Lights and Side Lights." 8vo, 900 pp., cloth, $5.00; sheep, $6.50.

These "Lights" are a galaxy of quotations taken exclusively from standard histories and biographies. All are arranged in alphabetical order under suitable topics, and each, complete in itself, refers the reader to the author and chapter quoted. They consist of facts, incidents, examples and precedents selected for illustrative purposes, and chiefly from the histories of the civilized races of antiquity and the American and English people. The subjects relate to religious, social and political life—to moral and civil government. The book has a general cross-reference index, also an index of personal names. The book is unique in design and admirable for convenience and utility. The historian's name is appended to every quotation. There are no fugitive anecdotes in the work.

"I read it with profit and delight. It will be of great service to all public speakers who know how to add illustrations to arguments. There are admirable materials in it for the feathers for a million arrows."—Joseph Cook.

"Such a wealth of material as this work contains makes it one of the most useful collections of information that I have ever seen. It is altogether the best historical reference-book ever published. It is an intelligent collection of authorities such as a student might have made in the course of twenty years, if he had once a day found an item which he regarded as of value. The indices are particularly commendable, and the system of cross-reference is as useful as it is novel. It seems to me that the book will be essential for reference to every scholar and in every library."—Abram S. Hewitt.

"It is a work of great beauty. It tells a story of intense interest, which never flags for a moment; its descriptions are drawn by the hand of a master, with the eye of a poet, and the familiarity of an expert with the objects described; its tone is so lofty that there is nothing with which to compare it but the New Testament; it is full of variety, now picturesque, now pathetic, now rising into the noblest realms of thought and aspiration; it finds language penetrating, fluent, elevated, impassioned, musical always, to clothe its varied thoughts and sentiments."—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

NEW KING ARTHUR, The. "An Opera without Music." By Edgar Fawcett, author of "The Buntling Ball." 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"Written in the form of a comic opera libretto, and a very bright one at that. Indeed, it is called 'an opera without music;' and yet it is so well written that it almost sings itself. If W. S. Gilbert didn't write it, he should get the person who did write it to compose the next Gilbert and Sullivan opera, for certainly this new 'Idyl of the King' recalls Gilbert at his very best."—Sunday News, Detroit.

"It is in two acts, and is pleasing and satirical, the rhymes having a very taking operatic jingle."—Philadelphia Call.

"Full of happy conceits of rhyme and thought. The imitation in metre and treatment of Sullivan, so noticeable in 'The Buntling Ball,' becomes more pronounced in this book. One has the same sensation in reading it as would be produced by hearing Gilbert and Sullivan's operas. Indeed, it is very clever."—Minneapolis Tribune.

"Like its predecessor, it is full of keen wit and pleasant satire, and exhibits a wide knowledge of human nature, and is evidently the work of a classical scholar."—Herald and Presbyter.

NEW LIGHT ON MORMONISM. A brief and succinct History of this Stupendous Delusion. By Ellen E. Dickinson, with introduction by the late Thurlow Weed. 12mo, 174 pp., $1.00.

"The most radical and complete exposure of Mormonism."—Chronicle, San Francisco.

"A clear, readable account of the origin and growth of Mormonism. A valuable, timely work."—Congregationalist, Boston.

"A particularly clear and trustworthy account of the origin of Mormonism."—Christian Standard, Cincinnati.

"A most effective focus of facts in readable style."—Catholic Mirror, Baltimore.

"The book contains much original matter, the publication and presentation of which appear to me to be highly important. Mrs. Dickinson is a relative of Solomon Spaulding, from whose stolen manuscript 'The Book of Mormon' was constructed. She has availed herself of family papers and other sources of information not heretofore used in histories of Mormonism, and produced a narrative of fascinating interest and great historical value. The facts she narrates cut up by the roots both the Josephite and the Mormonite form of the 'Latter-day Saints.' It discusses one of the most burning topics in American current reform. It will aid essentially in eradicating a giant mischief and delusion."—Joseph Cook.

¶PARKER'S PEOPLE'S BIBLE. Discourses upon Holy Scriptures, beginning with Genesis. By Joseph Parker, D.D. To be complete in 25 volumes, each volume complete in itself. 8vo, cloth, $1 50 per vol.

The following 12 volumes now ready: Genesis, 368 pp.; Exodus, 328 pp.; Leviticus–Numbers XXVI., 360 pp.; Numbers XXVI.–Deuteronomy, 412 pp.; Joshua–Judges V., 360 pp.; Judges VI.–I Samuel XVIII., 398 pp.; Matthew I.–V., 305 pp.; Matthew VIII.–XI, 376 pp.; Matthew XVI.–XXVIII., 373 pp.; Acts I.–XII., 354 pp.; Acts XIII.–XIX., 353 pp.; Acts XX.–XXVIII., 357 pp.

This is not a Bible Commentary in the usual sense of that term. It is a pastor's commentary upon such portions of Holy Scripture as are of obvious and immediate importance to the growth of the soul in divine wisdom, and is not, therefore, intended to take the place of the verbal and critical commentaries which so ably represent the latest phases of Christian erudition. Instead of going minutely through any book verse by verse, the first object will be to discover its governing idea or principal purpose, and to make that clear by taking out of the book, say twelve, twenty or thirty instances most strikingly illustrative of the writer's intention.

"Dr. Parker has begun a stupendous work in this 'People's Bible;' but its accomplishment lies within the possibilities of his fertile mind, should life and health be spared. He condenses wonderfully, and throws a splendor of diction over all that he pours forth. He seems to say all that can be said upon a passage; at times he gives only an outline, and leaves the filling up to the thoughtful reader. One is struck with the singular ability and special originality of Dr. Parker. He is no repeater of old remarks, nor is he a superfluous commentator. He is a man of genius, and whenever he has anything to say he says it in his own striking manner. His track is his own, and the jewels which he lets fall in his progress are from his own caskets; this will give a permanent value to his works, when the productions of copyists will be forgotten."—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

"We heartily endorse Spurgeon's estimate."—Andover Review.

"The result of powerful thinking and keen insight."—British Quarterly Review, London.

"Remarkable for its splendid diction and striking thoughts."—Reformed Quarterly Review, Philadelphia.

PRAISE SONGS OF ISRAEL. A new Rendering of the Book of Psalms, arranged in Verse by John De Witt, D.D., of the Theological Seminary, New Brunswick, N. J., and member of the American Old Testament Revision Company. Large 8vo, 219 pp., $1.50.

"Dr. De Witt has prepared a translation of the Psalms, which is the happy result of accurate scholarship and æsthetic taste. The significance and poetry are both preserved. His treatment of the Hebrew tenses (as they are called) relieves the text from obscurity, and his rythmical English is in full accord with the poetry of the Psalmist. It is not too much to say that this is the best translation of the Psalms in the English language."—Howard Crosby, D.D., LL.D.

"It is an admirable rendering of the Psalms. While showing an accurate knowledge of the Hebrew, Dr. De Witt has clothed the divine thoughts of the Psalmist in beautiful and appropriate language. The rendering seems to me very successful."—Very Rev. Robert Payne Smith, D.D., Dean of Canterbury, member of the British Old Testament Revision Company.

"Mr. Julian Hawthorne has written many things that are remarkable, either in conception or execution, but nothing that surpasses 'Prince Saroni's Wife' and 'The Pearl-Shell Necklace.' The character of Agatha is as perfect as the character of any of Shakespeare's women, and the supernatural laugh which haunts the ruins of the old mill-wheel is beyond anything of the kind that we remember. Mr. Hawthorne is a man of genius."—R. H. Stoddard in the Mail and Express, New York.

PSYCHIC STUDIES, the New; in their Relations to Christian Thought. By Franklin Johnson. 12mo, 91 pp., 75 cts.

What are called Psychic studies now engage the attention of many distinguished minds; some in this country, and more in England. These studies relate to what is commonly known as thought-transference, somnambulism, mesmerism, clairvoyance, spiritualism, apparition of the living, haunted houses, ghosts and Buddhistic occultism. Many of the phenomena which these scientists are investigating lie in the dim borderland between the spirit and the body. The researches, here carefully noted, have been chiefly carried on under the direction of the British "Society for Psychical Research." In this small volume is presented a great mass of interesting facts, which are made the basis of some important theories and conclusions, worth the careful study of the believers in Christianity, as well as of sceptics.

PULPIT TREES, and Homiletic Undergrowth. Being Discourses, Sermonic Saplings, Outlines and Germs. By Rev. Thomas Kelly, of Philadelphia. 12mo, 336 pp., cloth, $1.50.

Though composed of pulpit matter, this is a book quite out of the common order, and will be sure to be appreciated by preachers and students of the Word. It handles a number of texts that are seldom used in the pulpit, and it does it in a masterly, suggestive and original way.

"The owner of this theological grove we suppose to be a minister in Philadelphia. On walking through it we counted nineteen 'pulpit trees,' and found them all named. . . . On the whole, our walk was so pleasant that we can commend the grove to others as a very pleasant retreat, where they will find much to admire, and be likely to come away refreshed and invigorated."—Messiah's Herald, Boston.

Daniel the Prophet, 519 pp.

"It is the best exposition known to me of that section of the Sacred Scriptures. Pusey's Hebrew scholarship was undoubted; his learning was extensive; his acquaintance, particularly with patristic literature, was very large, and his heart was especially devout. His well-known Church views do not obtrude themselves, and alike in his comments on Daniel and the Minor Prophets, he seems to be on his knees as he studies—seeking only to know God's meaning and desiring only to do God's will. I have gone through his Daniel chapter by chapter—wondering even more at the reverence than at the learning of the expositor."—William M. Taylor, D.D.

"It is the most learned, able and instructive commentary on that portion of the Scripture."—Prof. Henry Green, Princeton Seminary.

Sermon on the Cross.	Secret Sins.
A Beatitude Realized.	"Benedictus" of Zacharias.
Meditation, Emotion, Utterance.	The First Psalm.
	"Gloria in Excelsis."

As a preacher on practical themes Dr. Robinson has few equals. There is a simplicity in thought and diction, a directness, freshness, and pungency in form and quality that are charming and effective. His sermons are always Scriptural, terse, compact, brief and full of pertinent illustration. As a Hymnologist he has earned for himself the first place in the Church of to-day.

ROME IN AMERICA. By Justin D. Fulton, D.D., with a Sketch of the Author, by R. S. MacArthur, D.D. 12mo, 164 pp., paper, 30 cts.; cloth, 75 cts.

"In this volume, consisting of sermons, lectures and essays, the author discusses the doctrinal assumptions of the Roman Church, its avowed intolerance to an open Bible and to free thought, the superstition and idolatry in its doctrines, the ambition and corruption of its priests, and the peril to American institutions from a thoroughly organized and rapidly growing power which treacherously undermines where it dare not openly assail. The glowing fervor, the honesty and courage of conviction, the broad Christian sympathy apparent on every page, go far to atone for noticeable defects of literary style. In addition to Dr. McArthur's biographical sketch the book is furnished with an excellent portrait of Dr. Fulton, and an index of names and subjects."—New York Examiner.

SCIENCE OF POLITICS, The. By Walter Thomas Mills, Secretary of the National Inter-Collegiate Association. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

This book is an attempt to discover the ways and means by which the common citizen may become an active and effective part of the Government under which he lives. It formulates and discusses the underlying principles involved in every conceivable phase of practical politics.

It is not a book of day dreams. It deals directly with those daily duties and privileges of worthy citizenship which are of the greatest practical importance. It is not a book of theories divorced from facts, demanding an ideal and impossible social condition for their use. It deals directly with the hard facts of our political history, and never loses sight of the necessary conditions under which men must act if they act together. Its foot-notes are extensive and valuable—establishing that the doctrines here taught are in line with the plain lessons of history and the teachings of the great authors on civil government.

Partial Contents:

Agnostic Evolution.

"The sophistical reasoning by which it has been attempted to give some scientific credibility to the doctrines of Darwin and his school is exposed in a trenchant and telling way. He lays his hand at once upon the fallacy and drags it into the light. He fortifies his position with testimony drawn as well from the evolutionist himself as from his opponents. The argument is thus presented in a form to be appreciated by any reader, and is adapted to opening the eyes of those who take it for granted that doctrines associated with great names and elaborated in famous books must of course be true."—The Standard, Chicago.

The books of "The Standard Library" are designed for popular reading in biography, travel, hygiene, self-culture, fiction, science, philosophy, political economy, general literature and criticism. There are also stories and tales, and some popular expositions of the Bible. Many of the works of fiction are by eminent American authors, while care has been exercised to exclude fiction of a flashy and sensational character. The type is large and clear, and the paper good. All editions are handy 12mo size, with titles on back, and will stand erect on shelf. The paper-bound edition will be found especially convenient for summer use, and for village or home libraries, and for reading circles.

SUPPLEMENTAL CYCLOPÆDIA, The. An economical, scholarly arrangement of book-like boxes, with accordion-like envelopes, alphabetically labelled, for keeping as available as articles in a cyclopædia, clippings, jottings, library references, pamphlets, newspapers, speeches, letters, receipts, sermons, etc. Copyrighted and patented by Rev. Wilbur F. Crafts, A.M. Size of boxes: 11 inches high, 7 inches deep, 3 inches thick; size of envelopes: 3¼ x 7 inches. Sold only in sets of four boxes. Price, $10.00. Additional boxes (with envelopes), to subscribers only, $1.50 per box.

These boxes are made of light wood covered with durable paper, with sheep back, and title in gilt letters. A door-like back to each obviates handling. The envelopes have no "tongues," and are open at one end. The outside of each is ruled for library references. On the door-like back is a printed index of topics, for which envelopes have been provided. The arrangement admits of such classification as the possessor may elect.

"The 'Supplemental Cyclopædia' seems to me perfect for its end. I wish I could have had it at the beginning of my ministry and put in it the gatherings of the years. It is compact and yet voluminous. It keeps things tight while leaving them loose. It is easily handled, sufficiently durable, and looks well. It is the best thing of the kind I have ever seen."—Charles S. Robinson, D.D.

SWEET CICELY; or, Josiah Allen as a Politician. By "Josiah Allen's Wife" (Marietta Holley). A fascinating story. 12mo, 390 pp., $2.00.

"Josiah Allen's Wife" has gained a national fame by her inimitable, mirth-provoking style and her quaint wisdom. The humor is irresistible, and underneath it she strikes powerful blows against wickedness and in defence of right.

"Modern fiction has not furnished a more thoroughly individual character than 'Josiah Allen's Wife.' She will be remembered, honored, laughed and cried over when the purely 'artistic' novelist and his heroine have passed into oblivion; and for this reason 'Josiah Allen's Wife' is a

'Creature not too bright or good
For human nature's daily food.'

She is a woman, wit, philanthropist, and statesman all in one, and 'I prophesy' that 'Sweet Cicely's' gentle, firm hand shall lead 'Josiah Allen's Wife' onward into literary immortality."—Miss Frances E. Willard.

"Seldom has a writer combined such effective argument with keener humor and more genuine pathos. There are hundreds of politicians who will be benefited, and see themselves as others see them, if they will read the chapters upon Josiah when the Senatorial bee got to buzzing in his bonnet, and when he concluded to expend the entire year's crop of apples in buying votes enough to send him to Washington. His ideas of 'subsidies' and 'free trade' and 'Woman's rights' are as good specimens of genuine humor as can be found in the language."—Inter-Ocean, Chicago.

"Miss Holley seems to realize that humorists have a higher mission than merely furnishing amusement, and she uses her talents in the interest of all that is good, launching the keen shafts of satire right and left at fashionable follies and society sins. The tendency of her books is good, and they are sources of amusement which have few equals. Miss Holley can be pathetic as well as funny, and she is very much in earnest about things of which she writes in a jocular style. Her humor has a decidedly healthful, moral tone."—The Commonwealth, Boston.

TALFORD. An Affair at the —— Club in New York. A humorous, clever, convincing showing up of the Agnosticism and Materialism of the Day. 12mo, 32 pp., ribbon-tied, paper, 30 cts.

"Have read it with interest and profit. It deals, in an entertaining way, some severe blows at Modern 'Advanced Thought,' and shows with keenest satire the bombastic 'Rationalism' of the day. Its widest possible circulation will do good."—A. C. Wedekind, D.D.

"Dr. Talmage's discourses lay hold of my inmost soul. The Lord is with this mighty man of valor. So may He ever be till the campaign closes with victory! I am indeed glad of his voice. It cheers me intensely. He loves the Gospel, and believes in something, which some preachers hardly do. There are those about who use the old labels, but the articles are not the same. May the Lord win armies of souls to Jesus by this man! I am astonished when God blesses me, but somehow I should not be so much surprised if He blessed this man."—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

TEMPERANCE CENTURY, The. See "What the Temperance Century has made Certain."

TEN YEARS A POLICE COURT JUDGE. By Judge Wiglittle, of a Country Circuit. 12mo, 229 pp., paper, 25 cts.; cloth, $1.00. (S. Lib., 122.)

"I have now been connected with police courts as clerk and justice for nearly a quarter of a century. While reading the book, 'Ten Years a Police Court Judge,' I seemed all the time to be reading a graphic story of my own experience and observations, so truthful are its representations of human nature, as seen by the police magistrate. Nothing in the book is overdrawn, and the racy style of the author keeps up the reader's interest from the beginning to the close."—Judge Clark Jillson, of Worcester, Mass.

"After ten years' experience with preparatory classes and using the leading text-books, I am fully of the opinion that this book of Prof. Boise's embodies THE VERY BEST INTRODUCTORY COURSE OF ALL. It presents to the young student what is necessary, and nothing else; familiarizes him with the words, phrases and language of Xenophon; in short, it is the BRIEFEST and at the same time THE MOST THOROUGH introductory course with which I am acquainted. I cordially recommend it to our preparatory schools."—Prof. Elisha Jones, University of Michigan.

CROSS—ECLECTIC SHORT-HAND.—Writing by Principles instead of Arbitrary Signs, for General Use and Verbatim Reporting. By J. Geo. Cross, A.M. Twelfth Edition. Thoroughly Revised and Completed. 12mo, cloth..... 2.00

We claim that the demonstration of the following four propositions is an unanswerable argument why the short-hand student should adopt Eclectic Short-hand: (1) It is the briefest; (2) it is the simplest; (3) it is the easiest to write; (4) it is the most legible. Send for our circular demonstrating the above by comparison with the other systems.
